Cobbett's Parliamentary Debates Great Britain. Parliament, 1869 The Trobriand Islanders' Ways PEAKOME, 1863 of Speaking Gunter Senft, 2010-07-19 Bronislaw Maliniowski claimed in his monograph Argonauts of the Western Pacific that to approach the goal of ethnographic field work requires a collection of ethnographic statements characteristic narratives typical utterances items of folk lore and magical formulae as a corpus inscriptionum as documents of native mentality This book finally meets Malinowski s demand Based on more than 40 months of field research the author presents documents and illustrates the Trobriand Islanders own indigenous typology of text categories or genres covering the spectrum from ditties children chant while spinning a top to gossip songs tales and myths The typology is based on Kilivila metalinguistic terms for these genres and considers the relationship they have with registers or varieties which are also metalinguistically distinguished by the native speakers of this language Rooted in the ethnography of speaking paradigm and in the anthropological linguistics linguistic anthropology approach the book highlights the relevance of genres for researching the role of language culture and cognition in social interaction and demonstrates the importance of understanding genres for achieving linguistic and cultural competence In addition to the data presented in the book its readers have the opportunity to access the original audio and video data presented via the internet on a special website which mirrors the structure of the book Thus the reader can check the transcriptions against the original data recordings This makes the volume particularly

AGNEW, 1850 The Working Man's Green Space Micheline Nilsen, Brooks M. Barnes, 2014-02-21 With antecedents dating back to the Middle Ages the community garden is more popular than ever as a means of procuring the freshest food possible and instilling community cohesion But as Micheline Nilsen shows the small garden movement which gained impetus in the nineteenth century as rural workers crowded into industrial cities was for a long time primarily a repository of ideas concerning social reform hygienic improvement and class mobility Complementing efforts by worker cooperatives unions and social legislation the provision of small garden plots offered some relief from bleak urban living conditions Urban planners often thought of such gardens as a way to insert lungs into a city Standing at the intersection of a number of disciplines including landscape studies horticulture and urban history The Working Man's Green Space focuses on the development of allotment gardens in European countries in the nearly half century between the Franco Prussian War and World War I when the French Third Republic the German Empire and the late Victorian era in England saw the development of unprecedented measures to improve the lot of the laboring classes Nilsen shows how community gardening is inscribed within a social contract that differs from country to country but how there is also an underlying aesthetic and social significance to these gardens that transcends national borders Socialization for Achievement George A.
