Booth,1974-10-15 When should I change my mind What can I believe and what must I doubt In this new philosophy of good reasons Wayne C Booth exposes five dogmas of modernism that have too often inhibited efforts to answer these questions Modern dogmas teach that you cannot reason about values and that the job of thought is to doubt whatever can be doubted and they leave those who accept them crippled in their efforts to think and talk together about whatever concerns them most They have willed upon us a befouled rhetorical climate in which people are driven to two self destructive extremes defenders of reason becoming confined to ever narrower notions of logical or experimental proof and defenders of values becoming more and more irresponsible in trying to defend the heart the gut or the gonads Booth traces the consequences of modernist assumptions through a wide range of inquiry and action in politics art music literature and in personal efforts to find identity or a self In casting doubt on systematic doubt the author finds that the dogmas are being questioned in almost every modern discipline Suggesting that they be replaced with a rhetoric of systematic assent Booth discovers a vast neglected reservoir of good reasons many of them known to classical students of rhetoric some still to be explored These good reasons are here restored to intellectual respectability suggesting the possibility of widespread new inquiry in all fields into the question When should I change my mind
