Below him was a glen with a stream in a coppice of oaks and alders, and across the valley half a day's journey distant another hill steep and bristling raised against the sky, a little walled town with Ghibelline swallow tails. When the Hermit was a lad and lived in the town, the crenellations of the walls had been square topped, and a Guelf lord had flown his standard from the keep. Then one day a steel coloured line of men at arms rode across the valley, wound up the hill, and battered in the gates. Stones and Greek fire rained from the ramparts, shields clashed in the streets, blade sprang at blade in passages and stairways, pikes and lances dripped above huddled flesh, and all the still familiar place was a stew of dying bodies. The boy fled from it in horror. About the Publisher: Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books. Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com.
