

The background of the cover is a misty, atmospheric forest. Tall, thin trees with bare branches are visible through the fog. The ground is covered in fallen leaves and twigs. In the center of the lower half, a person is walking away from the viewer, carrying a guitar over their shoulder. The overall color palette is muted, with greys, browns, and soft yellows from the mist.

Yeats, 2006-01-01 Maeve the great queen was pacing to and fro Between the walls covered with beaten bronze In her high house at Cruachan the long hearth Flickering with ash and hazel but half showed Where the tired horse boys lay upon the rushes Or on the benches underneath the walls In comfortable sleep all living slept But that great queen who more than half the night Had paced from door to fire and fire to door Though now in her old age in her young age She had been beautiful in that old way That's all but gone for the proud heart is gone And the fool heart of the counting house fears all But soft beauty and indolent desire She could have called over the rim of the world Whatever woman's lover had hit her fancy And yet had been great bodied and great limbed Fashioned to be the mother of strong children And she'd had lucky eyes and a high heart And wisdom that caught fire like the dried flax At need and made her beautiful and fierce Sudden and laughing O unquiet heart Why do you praise another praising her As if there were no tale but your own tale Worth knitting to a measure of sweet sound Have I not bid you tell of that great queen Who has been buried some two thousand years When night was at its deepest a wild goose Cried from the porter's lodge and with long clamour Shook the ale horns and shields upon their hooks But the horse boys slept on as though some power Had filled the house with Druid heaviness And wondering who of the many changing Sidhe Had come as in the old times to counsel her Maeve walked yet with slow footfall being old To that small chamber by the outer gate The porter slept although he sat upright With still and stony limbs and open eyes Maeve waited and when that ear piercing noise Broke from his parted lips and broke again She laid a hand on either of his shoulders And shook him wide awake and bid him say Who of the wandering many changing ones Had troubled his sleep But all he had to say Was that the air being heavy and the dogs More still than they had been for a good month He had fallen asleep and though he had dreamed nothing He could remember when he had had fine dreams It was before the time of the great war Over the White Horned Bull and the Brown Bull The Collected Works William Butler Yeats, 1908 The Countess Cathleen William Butler Yeats, 1912
