Jost,2020-07-14 A leading psychologist explains why nearly all of us including many of those who are persecuted and powerless so often defend the social systems that cause misery and injustice Why do we so often defend the very social systems that are responsible for injustice and exploitation In A Theory of System Justification John Jost argues that we are motivated to defend the status quo because doing so serves fundamental psychological needs for certainty security and social acceptance We want to feel good not only about ourselves and the groups to which we belong but also about the overarching social structure in which we live even when it hurts others and ourselves Jost lays out the wide range of evidence for his groundbreaking theory and examines its implications for our communities and our democracy Drawing on twenty five years of research he provides an accessible account of system justification theory and its insights System justification helps to explain deep contradictions including the feeling among some women that they don t deserve the same salaries as men and the tendency of some poor people to vote for policies that increase economic inequality The theory illuminates the most pressing social and political issues of our time why has it been so hard to combat anthropogenic climate change as well as some of the most intimate why do some black children prefer white dolls to black ones and why do some people stay in bad relationships Jost s theory has far reaching implications and he offers numerous insights that political activists and social justice advocates can use to promote change Methodological Cognitivism Riccardo Viale,2012-05-24 This book deals with the cognitive foundation of the theory of social action The social sciences are still guided by models of social action far from the empirical reality of the psychology of action While economics seems to have made greater progress in accepting the changes to the theory of action derived from cognitive science see for example the 2002 Nobel prize for economics awarded to Daniel Kahneman sociology is still being oriented on the dualism of hermeneutics vs structuralism which leaves very little room for a cognitive theory of social action The unique features of the book are its combination of epistemology philosophy of mind and cognitive science in order to renew and overcome the limits of the current methodologies of social science and in particular methodological individualism Methodological cognitivism is proposed as an alternative to the holistic character of structuralism to the intentionalist and rationalist features of methodological individualism and to the relativistic character of hermeneutics and ethnomethodology
