Social Support Networks Informal Helping In The Human Service:

Social Support Networks, 1983 Social Support Networks, 1983 Environmental Practice in the Human Services

Bernard Neugeboren, 2013-01-11 Environmental Practice in the Human Services points to the need for the human services to return to their historic mission of environmental change. It moves beyond the more general conceptual emphasis on person in environment toward the development of an environmental practice technology based on an intervention model which prescribes specific micro and macro roles and functions. It may open the way to recapturing the conceptual breadth which characterized the first 40 years of social work as a professional and occupational entity. The ecological perspective in social work has fostered an interest in the impact of social environments on service consumers. Environmental Practice in the Human Services tries to rectify the historical imbalance in the human services that has emphasized people changing methods giving secondary emphasis to environmental change. It instructs students preparing for practice in the human services as well as agency practitioners in the knowledge and skills necessary in environmental practice. Cases in environmental practice are used to illustrate how these skills are utilized in actual practice situations. The book's scope includes practice at the direct service administration planning and social policy levels; it integrates micro and macro practice and shows how these two levels of practice are interdependent. This enables human service practitioners to create and/or modify social environments to enhance the functioning of clients being served in human service programs. Topics covered include important skills in environmental practice including decisionmaking, negotiating, and leadership; community practice and resource coordination; social support; the impact of organizational environments on practice; environmental practice for the chronically disabled. Author Neugeboren's approach is unique in its in-depth focus on environmental practice applying concepts of social environment to specific practice roles. This practice-specific content which provides tools needed for environmental practice is in contrast to existing texts on the social environment which are very theoretical and not integrated with practice. He includes material from the field of social ecology which has not been included in existing texts. It shows how practitioners and administrators, planners and policymakers can facilitate and support each other's work. Reading Environmental Practice in the Human Services will enlighten students and practitioners with specific skills for impacting on different social environments to enhance client benefit. It tells how a direct service practitioner can determine which organizational environments are suitable for particular client needs in making agency referrals. It also provides administrators with information about designing, planning and managing agencies with functional organizational environments which achieve effective services.

Social Work Treatment Francis J. Turner, 2017-03-23 First published in 1974 Social Work Treatment remains the most popular and trusted compendium of theories available to social work students and practitioners. It explores the full range of theoretical approaches that drive social work treatment and knowledge development from psychoanalysis to crisis intervention. A treasure trove of practice knowledge, the text equips professionals with a broad array of theoretical approaches each of which shine a spotlight on a different aspect of the human condition Emphasizing the importance of a broad based theoretical approach to practice it helps readers avoid the pitfalls of becoming overly identified with a narrow focus that limits their understanding of clients and their contexts This sweeping overview of the field untangles the increasingly complex problems ideologies and value sets that define contemporary social work practice The result is an essential A to Z reference that charts the full range of theoretical approaches available to social workers regardless of their setting or specialty

Support Networks in a Caring Community J.A. Yoder,J.M.L. Jonker,R.A.B. Leaper,2012-12-06 The historic Binnenhof seat of the Dutch government in The Hague provided the setting January 1985 for a conference in which participants from eleven countries met to consider the theme Support networks in a caring community research and policy fact and fiction At the outset conference leadership provided by Professors J M L Jonker The Netherlands and R A B Leaper United Kingdom urged the conferees not to allow their enthusiasm for informal support networks to combine with the pervasive awareness of the failures of welfare states into a simplistic stance of advocacy with a consequent appeal to politicians to direct state funds accordingly Legitimate criticisms of the responses of welfare states to the needs of citizens were to be seen as the context for discussion not the substance of conference deliberations More specifically if it is now apparent to many people that governmental assistance of individuals with social needs can lead to an undesirable dependency on the part of increasingly passive citizens that awareness does not lend logical support to an ideological position that governmental expenditures are pernicious per se to be replaced as rapidly as possible by a return to reliance on self family friends and associations that are developed voluntarily and financed by those who are sufficiently interested

Restorative and Responsive Human Services Gale Burford,John Braithwaite,Valerie Braithwaite,2019-03-04 In Restorative and Responsive Human Services Gale Burford John Braithwaite and Valerie Braithwaite bring together a distinguished collection providing rich lessons on how regulation in human services can proceed in empowering ways that heal and are respectful of human relationships and legal obligations The human services are in trouble combining restorative justice with responsive regulation might redeem them renewing their well intended principles Families provide glue that connects complex systems What are the challenges in scaling up relational practices that put families and primary groups at the core of health education and other social services This collection has a distinctive focus on the relational complexity of restorative practices How do they enable more responsive ways of grappling with complexity than hierarchical and prescriptive human services Lessons from responsive business regulation inform a re imagining of the human services to advance wellbeing and reduce domination Readers are challenged to re examine the perverse incentives and contradictions buried in policies and practices How do they undermine the capacities of families and communities to solve problems on their own terms This book will interest those who harbor concerns about the creep of domination into the lives of vulnerable citizens It will help policymakers and researchers to re focus human services to fundamental outcomes at the foundation of sustainable democracies This book is available for free in PDF format as Open Access from the individual product page at www.routledge.com It has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 4.0 license

Social Support Networks James K. Whittaker, James Garbarino, This book offers for the first time a clear conception of what social support networks are why they are important how they are identified and sustained where they fit in an overall framework of human services and their limits and potential in selected fields of practice Individual chapters explore child adolescent and family services daycare and early childhood development divorced and stepfamilies schools delinquency prevention and treatment mental health service to the elderly development disabilities healthcare and health promotion and drug treatment The use of social support networks extended family friends neighbors and other informal helpers is an idea whose time has come in the human services field At a time when spiraling costs and popular sentiment weigh against any major expansion of services it is apparent that a service strategy based primarily on the notion of professional helping delivered on a case by case basis usually in a one to one relationship has serious limitations Professional response to this major work has been uniformly positive The editors have assembled a book of considerable importance brilliant in both scholarship and construction will appeal to a broad readership Gerald Euster University of South Carolina offers a much needed balance to the focus on individual and internal dynamics which has characterized social work education for several decades Eleanor Reardon Tolson University of Chicago Social Support Networks is a valuable contribution a unique original and authoritative book an exciting timely and definitely practice oriented book with a strong theoretical and research base Anthony N Maluccio University of Connecticut James K Whittaker is professor of social work at the University of Washington A former childcare worker therapist and administrator in residential childcare he has been a consultant to governmental and voluntary children's agencies throughout the United States James Garbarino is Elizabeth Lee Vincent Professor of Human Development in the College of Human Ecology at Cornell University He was president of the Erikson Institute for Advanced Study in Child Development Chicago Illinois from 1985 to 1994 He is the co author of Troubled Youth Troubled Families also available from Aldine Transaction

The Social Basis of Community Care (Routledge Revivals) Martin Bulmer, 2015-06-11 Care for the elderly disabled and mentally ill within and by the community forms a vital part of current social policy Martin Bulmer argues that this policy is inadequately thought out and rests on a series of poorly founded sociological assumptions As a result there is a vacuum at the heart of government's social care policy which is likely to lead to ineffective or deteriorating provision for those in need This book first published in 1987 will be essential reading for all those concerned with the organization and delivery of social care whether as students practitioners or teachers It will be particularly useful for courses dealing with social policy the personal social services and the social context of social work

Protecting Children and Supporting Families Gary Cameron, Jim Vanderwoerd, Leslea Peirson, 1997-01-01 This book highlights encouraging news about programs that produce better outcomes for disadvantaged children and families It includes a comprehensive and up to date synthesis of the research evidence available on the effectiveness of these promising programs Particular attention is given to programs with a demonstrated potential to prevent child abuse and neglect and family breakdown

Social Work Practice in Nontraditional Urban Settings Melvin Delgado, 1999 The author suggests that many communities can be best served through their own already established recreational social and cultural centres and shows how professional social workers can use these non traditional settings bars beauty shops and bathhouses to reach out to the communities they are trying to help
