Liberating Visions Robert Michael Franklin, The four men spotlighted in this book together with other black religious and political leaders and communities have developed distinctive and significant traditions of moral thinking and social criticism Although the principal concern of these thinkers was social justice entailing significant institutional transformations in American society they were also attentive to the substantive content and formal character of the authentically free life and moral person. Indeed most of them realized that authentic liberation required personal as well as social transformation. Despite the significance and diversity of perspective in black theology however much of it does not adequately attend to the host of issues related to personal identity, wholeness and fulfillment. This general inattention to the personal dimension of the liberation enterprise has important consequences. Failure to understand the person centered dimension of a broader inclusive societal transformation can lead to a disturbing paradox: an optimism concerning the future of society existing alongside personal and familial disintegration, despair and frustration. Our method for correcting the perspectival imbalance in black theology is to identify the finest and most trusted resources and reflections on personal wholeness in the modern black community and to present them for revision, reconsideration and possible reappropriation. In this book I examine visions of human fulfillment and of the just society as presented by Booker T Washington 1856-1915, W. E. B. Du Bois 1868-1963, Malcolm X 1925-1965 and Martin Luther King Jr 1929-1968. As I examined the ranks of post Reconstruction African American leaders I did so with an eye for those whose intellectual and political influence upon past and present Americans could be characterized as monumental. Sexual Democracy Ann

Ferguson, 2019-09-16. In a book that is both a critical analysis of contemporary society and the record of a feminist intellectual odyssey, Ann Ferguson, one of the most influential socialist feminist theorists, develops a new theory of social domination. Tracing the development of socialist feminist theory from its roots in the politics of the New Left to its present p

Postsocialist Politics and the Ends of Revolution Neda Atanasić, Kalindi Vora, 2022-10-20. Moving past the conflation of state socialism with all socialist projects, this book opens up avenues for addressing socialist projects rooted in decolonial and antiracist politics. To that end, this anthology brings together scholarship across regions that engages postsocialism as an analytic that connects the afters of the capitalist socialist dynamic to present day politics. Resisting the revolutionary teleology of what was before, postsocialism can function to create space to work through ongoing legacies of socialisms in the present. Looking at the Middle East, Scandinavia, Korea, Romania, China and the US, the chapters in this book assess ongoing socialist legacies in new ethical collectivities and networks of dissent opposing state and corporate based military, economic and cultural expansionism since the end of the Cold War. The majority of the chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the journal Social Identities. Class, Ideologies and Educational Futures D. Livingstone, 2012-05-16.

This book provides a systematic and detailed analysis of class relations in advanced capitalist societies as a basis for understanding both class differences in educational practices and the relative effects of class and other social background factors on public attitudes toward education. Secondly, the book offers an empirically grounded summary of the contending educational ideologies in advanced capitalism through a discourse analysis of the public statements of spokespersons for major class groupings. Thirdly, using the data from several public opinion surveys in Ontario, profiles of public attitudes on critical education issues are interpreted in terms of the actual effects of class and other social background factors as well as the mediating influences of contending ideologies Finally a general approach and array of tactics for creating practical alternative educational and social futures are illustrated through the book
