A Planner's Encounter with Complexity Elisabete A. Silva, 2016-03-16 Spatial planning is about dealing with our everyday environment In A Planner's Encounter with Complexity we present various understandings of complexity and how the environment is considered accordingly One of these considerations is the environment as subject to processes of continuous change being either progressive or destructive evolving non linearly and alternating between stable and dynamic periods If the environment that is subject to change is adaptive self organizing robust and flexible in relation to this change a process of evolution and co evolution can be expected This understanding of an evolving environment is not mainstream to every planner However in A Planner's Encounter with Complexity we argue that environments confronted with discontinuous non linear evolving processes might be more real than the idea that an environment is simply a planner's creation Above all we argue that recognizing the complexity of our environment offers an entirely new perspective on our world and our environment on planning theory and practice and on the raison d'être of the planners that we are A Planner's Encounter with Complexity is organized into 17 chapters It begins with the interplay of planning and complexity from the perspective of contemporary planning theory It continues by critically assessing planning theory and practice in the light of the interdisciplinary debate regarding complexity thinking As the book progresses it positions itself ever closer to the perspective of complexity thinking looking at the planning discipline from the outside in clarifying the facets of complexity and its importance in planning Finally conceptual and theoretical developments towards more applied examples are identified in order to see the interplay of planning and complexity in practice This book emphasizes the importance of complexity in planning clarifies many of the concepts and theories presents examples on planning and complexity and proposes new ideas and methods for planning

Reviving Democracy Barry Knight, Rajesh Tandon, 2012-05-23 The aim of this text is to analyze the conditions for a good society and from extensive international research to show how citizens can be put at the centre of the political process This has enormous importance for future policy which the authors explore With support from the Commonwealth Foundation the book sets out to change the current political consensus and demonstrate the route forward to sustainable development

Participatory Pathways Rajiv Balakrishnan, 2007 Contributed articles some of which have been previously presented in a seminar and in two journals Architecture, Participation and Society Paul Jenkins, Leslie Forsyth, 2009-09-10 How can architects best increase their engagement with building users and wider society to provide better architecture Since the mid 1990s government policy has promoted the idea of greater social participation in the production and management of the built environment but there has been limited direction to the practising architect Reviewing international cases and past experiences to analyze what lessons have been learnt this book argues for participation within other related disciplines and makes a set of recommendations for architectural practices and other key actors Revolutions in Development Inquiry Robert Chambers, 2012-05-04 Robert Chambers returns with a new book that reviews together for the first time some of the revolutionary changes in the methodologies and methods of development inquiry that have occurred in the past forty years and reflects on their transformative potential for the future This book breaks new ground by describing and analysing the evolution of a sequence of approaches Starting with the dinosaurs of large scale multi subject questionnaire surveys and the biased visits and perceptions of rural development tourism and urban based professionals there follows a look at the explosive proliferation of methodologies and methods of recent years These include rapid rural appraisal RRA participatory rural appraisal PRA and dramatic developments in the still largely unrecognized fields of participatory numbers and statistics and of participatory mapping and GIS Chambers shows how these can empower local people and provide rigorous and valid substitutes for some more traditional methods of inquiry Also presented is a repertoire for offsetting the biases of the urban trap which has become so serious for officials and aid agency staff Importantly Chambers points out that we are now in a different space methodologically from a few years ago He makes the case that participatory methodologies evolved through creative and eclectic pluralism can be a transformative wave for the future as drivers of personal professional and institutional change This book is for all who are concerned with development regardless of profession discipline or organization who seek to be abreast of the revolutionary breakthroughs in approaches and methods of inquiry of recent years and what Chambers calls their unlimited potentials Published with IDS book sets social entrepreneurship in a historical context from its philanthropic beginnings in the Victorian era to the present day against the backdrop of contemporary global capitalism Tourism and Sustainability Martin Mowforth, Ian Munt, 2015-12-22 By January 2015 the world's richest 80 people had as much wealth as the poorest 50 per cent of the world's population. It is a global unevenness through which the barriers to immigration of Third World migrants to wealthy First World nations go ever higher while the barriers to travel in the reverse direction are all but extinct. So how exactly does tourism contribute to narrowing this glaring inequality between the rich and poor? Are ever-expanding tourism markets a smoke-free socioculturally sensitive form of human industrialisation? Is alternative tourism really a credible lever for reducing global inequality and eliminating poverty? Tourism and Sustainability critically explores the most significant universal geopolitical norms of the last half century: development, globalisation and sustainability, and through the lens of new forms of tourism demonstrates how we can better get to grips with the rapidly changing new global order. The fourth edition has been extensively revised and updated and benefits from the addition of new material on climate change and tourism. Drawing on a range of examples from across the Third World, Mowforth and Munt expertly illustrate the social, economic and environmental conditions that continue to affect the tourism industry. With the first edition hailed by Geoffrey Wall as one of the most significant books produced on tourism since the turn of the millennium, Tourism and Sustainability remains the essential resource for students of human geography, environmental sciences and studies, politics, development studies, anthropology and business studies as well as tourism itself.

Poverty, Social Exclusion and Microfinance in Britain Ben Rogaly, Thomas Fisher, 1999 This is an analysis of the potential of community-based financial services to reduce poverty and combat social exclusion in Britain. From this base, the authors move to a critical review of the outcomes of microfinance interventions around the world. They consider innovative economic responses to poverty in countries such as Bangladesh and Bolivia. Then drawing on their own research, they set out ways to counter financial exclusion in Britain, how to enable people to build assets and acquire capital and provide mechanisms for the wealth retention in communities deserted by conventional banks.

Environments and Livelihoods Koos Neefjes, 2000 This book is intended to be used to support the campaigning and lobbying work of local and international development organizations to improve the formulation and implementation of development strategies and to strengthen participatory project planning, monitoring and impact assessment in poverty and environmental change.

Community Self-Help D. Burns, C. Williams, J. Windebank, 2004-03-24 This book explores the dynamics of community self-help in local neighbourhoods. It shows how widespread it is and argues that it should be considered as the third major sector of social and economic organization alongside the state and market. Danny Burns, Colin C. Williams and Jan Windebank examine community self-help as a springboard into the mainstream, a complement to it and an alternative. Finally, the book opens out a vision of social organization with self-help and mutual aid at its heart.
