The Predicament Of The Prosperous

Douglas A. Hume

The Predicament Of The Prosperous:

The Proper Pursuit of Prosperity William E. Cripe, 2011-10 Our God is a generous God However His kindness generosity and blessing do not exclude us from hard times struggles or injustices in this life For many faith is the coin you put into a vending machine God obligating Him to dispense your selection The hard truth is that the tendency toward suffering in this life is more normal for the Christian than the promise of perfect health and extraordinary wealth There is a Proper Pursuit of Prosperity but it bears little resemblance to the so called good news being hawked by many of today's purveyors of prosperity In William Cripe Sr's inspirational and informative book you will discover what the prosperity gospel is what is wrong with it and what is right with it You will also find the answer to the question Is there a legitimate expectation of prosperity this side of heaven There is a day of perfect prosperity promised to all who believe but that day is not in this lifetime We exist not for the pursuit of our own gratification but to do God's bidding not the other way around Dive into The Proper Pursuit of Prosperity and discover Cripe's message of how God does not exist for us we exist for Him Cripe's work is a needed corrective to much of the prosperity preaching and teaching of our day He combines an emphasis on biblical theology with global realities and personal experience that makes for an extremely effective argument The goal of seeking and applying balanced truth is instructive for us all Dr Martin Crain Trinity Evangelical Divinity School Director Professional Doctoral Programs Associate Professor of Pastoral Theology

The Early Christian Community Douglas A. Hume, 2011 Douglas A Hume offers a narrative ethical reading of the passages depicting the early Christian community in Acts 2:41-47 and 4:32-35 He begins with a methodological exploration of how contemporary scholars may examine the impact of biblical narratives upon reader's moral imaginations Given the presence of friendship language in Acts the work subsequently launches into an examination of this idiom in Greco-Roman philosophical and literary works by Aristotle Plutarch Diogenes Laertius and Iamblichus The author then proceeds to an exegetical examination of how friendship language is employed by Luke in the narrative summaries of Acts This ethical reading of the Acts 2:41-47 and 4:32-35 incorporates multiple features of narrative criticism and asks such wide-ranging questions as the use of emotion point of view and characterization to shape the reading audience's perception of God the early Christian community and other characters within the story of Luke Acts This study has implications for biblical studies practical theology and contemporary understandings of ecclesiology
