Arts Programming for the Anthropocene Bill Gilbert, Anicca Cox, 2018-11-21 Arts Programming for the Anthropocene argues for a role for the arts as an engaged professional practice in contemporary culture charting the evolution of arts over the previous half century from a primarily solitary practice involved with its own internal dialogue to one actively seeking a larger discourse The chapters investigate the origin and evolution of five academic field programs on three continents mapping developments in field pedagogy in the arts over the past twenty years Drawing upon the collective experience of artists and academicians in the United States Australia and Greece operating in a wide range of social and environmental contexts it makes the case for the necessity of an update to ensure the real world relevance and applicability of tertiary arts education Based on thirty years of experimentation in arts pedagogy including the creation of the Land Arts of the American West LAAW program and Art and Ecology discipline at the University of New Mexico this book is written for arts practitioners aspiring artists art educators and those interested in how the arts can contribute to strengthening cultural resiliency in the face of rapid environmental change Ceramistas de Mata Ortiz, Cinco Barrios, Siete Familias, 1999

Land Arts of the American West Chris Taylor, Bill Gilbert, 2009-04 A wide ranging exploration of human interactions with the land over thousands of years as well as a model for teaching art and design in the field Portraits of Clay Sandra S. Smith, 1997 Not long ago pottery was a lost art in Chihuahua Mexico But in the 1970s near the ruins of Casas Grandes an art revolution was born Inspired by ancient pottery fragments from a tradition that had disappeared before the arrival of the first Europeans a self taught woodcutter turned artist reinvented an entire ceramic technology Today Casas Grandes pottery made by hand from local clays and mineral colors by a handful of artists claims high prices and sets the standard for contemporary pottery Photographer Sandra Smith traveled to Mata Ortiz to photograph the potters and to record their reflections on their work Her portraits document their techniques collecting and preparing the clay forming by hand sanding and painting They also capture intimate moments between artists and their art For anyone who has ever admired Casas Grandes pottery Portraits of Clay is a beautiful introduction to the potters and their work Mata Ortiz Pottery Today Guy Berger, 2010-01-01 This distinctive pottery made for use and for show at the village of Mata Ortiz Mexico evolved from Juan Quezada's first efforts in 1974 into a business that involves the village and now employs around 350 potters Six distinct styles are presented black polychrome sgraffito etched colored miniature and special shapes Bowls plates vessels and delightful figural pieces have recognizable glazes and coloring that have made Mata Ortiz pottery welcome in many ceramics collections today This fresh and comprehensive book includes a fascinating discussion of similarities in the bird motif with Acoma Pueblo New Mexico pottery Private and gallery pottery collections were studied making this a thorough presentation of old and new work Each form is described with the maker's name decorative details and dimensions Estimated retail values are suggested as a general guide Both older and emerging artists are well represented making this an important reference for the classic forms current styles and future designs
