violence against youth be it at school or on the streets is a common theme in American culture As the occurrences of these gruesome shootings become more frequent Americans grow even more anesthetized to the events Even President Obama has indicated that shootings do not affect him as they once did Somehow this has become routine The reporting is routine My response here at this podium ends up being routine Bailey 2015 1 As Americans become less shocked by school shootings and death they become numb to violence in other aspects of society like shootings of black males and shootings of law enforcement officers Yet nothing has galvanized the country as it relates to police tactics black deaths race relations and criminal justice techniques more than the death of Michael Brown The fatal shooting of Brown by Officer Darren Wilson a 28 year old white policeman occurred on August 9 2014 in Ferguson Missouri a suburb of St Louis The circumstances of the shooting which continue to be debated and discussed resulted in an escalation of existing tensions between the citizens of Ferguson and the institution charged with protecting them and the country as a whole This book provides a more comprehensive examination of the events surrounding the shooting of Michael Brown by Officer Wilson and the events that followed It uncovers the lingering questions surrounding the events of August 9 2014 and will serve to generate an on going dialogue about the role race and class play in the criminal justice system the importance of recognizing the impact of public policy initiatives and laws at the local level when measured through the lens of criminal justice and judicial equity and the role the media plays in shaping the public agenda This book does this by exploring the relationship between established historical cultural norms that have propagated classism and racial division and the public policy initiatives that allow the continuation of these problems The London Gazette ,1858 History of Western Maryland John Thomas Scharf,2003
