II,2021-08-04 The eight chapters within this volume are structured around an exploration of the fundamental issues in the field of biomedical human rights dignity and autonomy in not only procreative liberties but throughout the complete cycle of life and death the freedom of scientific inquiry into the new biotechnological methods of collaborative reproduction the right to genetic integrity at birth and throughout life and the equitable right to health or access to health care benefits during life and old age All these central issues are tested of necessity but utilitarian principles which in turn force the templates for decision making evaluate the gravity of harm deriving from a particular human right and its recognition and enforcement measured against the utility of the social economic or cultural good accruing from recognition of such a right in the first instance Ultimately cultural relativism will be seen more often than universality as the determinative point of balance This volume not only informs the ongoing debate on the role of human rights in biomedicine but will also provide enlightened responses to the troublesome issues presented in this new age of biotechnology Human Rights Issues at the Sixth Regular Session of the Organization of American States General Assembly United States. Robert McCorquodale,2017-11-22 This title was first published in 2003 Theories of human rights are important as they can be a means to challenging entrenched and oppressive power These key essays take a philosophical approach to human rights questioning dominant theories and offering different perspectives on their application Indigenous Peoples, Consent and Rights

Stephen Young,2019-11-19 Analysing how Indigenous Peoples come to be identifiable as bearers of human rights this book considers how individuals and communities claim the right of free prior and informed consent FPIC as Indigenous peoples The basic notion of FPIC is that states should seek Indigenous peoples consent before taking actions that will have an impact on them their territories or their livelihoods FPIC is an important development for Indigenous peoples their advocates and supporters because one might assume that where states recognize it Indigenous peoples will have the ability to control how non Indigenous laws and actions will affect them But who exactly are the Indigenous peoples that are the subjects of this discourse This book argues that the subject status of Indigenous peoples emerged out of international law in the late 1970s and early 1980s Then through a series of case studies it considers how self identifying Indigenous peoples scholars UN institutions and non government organizations NGOs dispersed that subject status and associated rights discourse through international and national legal contexts It shows that those who claim international human rights as Indigenous peoples performatively become identifiable subjects of international law but further demonstrates that this does not however provide them with control over or emancipation from a state based legal system Maintaining that the discourse on Indigenous peoples and international law itself needs to be theoretically and critically re appraised this book problematises the subject status of those who claim Indigenous peoples rights and the role of scholars institutions NGOs and others in producing that subject status Squarely addressing the limitations of international human rights law it nevertheless goes on to provide a conceptual framework for rethinking the promise and power of Indigenous peoples rights Original and sophisticated the book will appeal to scholars activists and lawyers involved with indigenous rights as well as those with more general interests in the operation of international law

Law, Psychology, and Morality Eyal Zamir, 2015 Prospect theory posits that people do not perceive outcomes as final states of wealth or welfare but rather as gains or losses in relation to some reference point People are generally loss averse the disutility generated by a loss is greater than the utility produced by a commensurate gain Loss aversion is related to such phenomena as the status quo and omission biases the endowment effect and escalation of commitment The book systematically analyzes the relationships between loss aversion and the law Gender Justice and the Law Elaine Wood, 2020-11-16 Gender Justice and the Law presents a collection of essays that examines how gender as a category of identity must continually be understood in relation to how structures of inequality define and shape its meaning It asks how notions of justice shape gender identity and whether the legal justice system itself privileges notions of gender or is itself gendered Shaped by politics and policy Gender Justice essays contribute to understanding how theoretical practices of intersectionality relate to structures of inequality and relations formed as a result of their interaction Given its theme the collection s essays examine theoretical practices of intersectional identity at the nexus of gender and justice that might also relate to issues of sexuality race class age and ability International Human Rights and Humanitarian Law Francisco Forrest Martin, Stephen J. Schnably, Richard Wilson, Jonathan Simon, Mark Tushnet, 2006-01-16 International Human Rights and Humanitarian Law Treaties Cases and Analysis introduces the reader to the international legal instruments and case law governing the substantive and procedural dimensions of international human rights and humanitarian law including economic social and cultural rights The book which was originally published in 2006 also discusses the history and organisational structure of human rights and humanitarian law enforcement mechanisms A chapter is devoted a chapter to the issues surrounding the incorporation of international law into U S law including principles of constitutional and statutory interpretation conflict rules and the self execution doctrine Questions and comments sections provide critical analyses of issues raised in the materials The last chapter addresses theoretical issues facing contemporary international human rights and humanitarian law and its enforcement
