meditative states known as the concentrations and formless absorptions are best known in the West from Theravada scriptures and from Vasubandhu's Treasury of Manifest Knowledge. In this book the reader is exposed to Tibetan Buddhist views on the mental states attained through meditation as described by three contemporary Tibetan lamas. The book discusses the ways in which certain meditative states act as bases of the spiritual path as well as the nature of meditative calm and the prerequisites for cultivating and attaining it. In addition to reviewing and translating Tibetan sources, the author considers their major Indian antecedents and draws comparisons with Theravadin presentations.

A Study of Svatantrika
Donald S. Lopez Jr., 2016-09-13. A Study of Svatantrika represents an important contribution to our understanding of Mādhyamika philosophy in India and Tibet. The Mādhyamika is considered to have two subschools: Svatantrika and Prāsangika. The Prāsangika school of Candrakīrti is better known than Svatantrika in part because the major Svatantrika texts are preserved only in Tibetan translation. The Svatantrikas, however, made important contributions to Buddhist philosophy in their expositions of the nature of reality, the role of reasoning in the process of enlightenment, and in their delineations of the paths to nirvāṇa. The synthesis of Yogācāra and Mādhyamika philosophy by the Svatantrika master Nāgārjuna represents the final development of Buddhist thought in India. In Tibet, Svatantrika was the first Indian Buddhist school to gain currency prior to the translation of the works of Candrakīrti into Tibetan. In preparing this Study of Svatantrika, Donald S. Lopez Jr. consulted the major Indian works of the Svatantrikas, figures central to the development of Buddhist thought in India such as Bhāvaviveka, Jñānagarbha, Nāgārjuna, and Kamalaśīla, and analyzed a number of Tibetan expositions of Svatantrika. The result is the most extensive examination of this influential school available in the West.
