The Mind of Mithraists Luther H. Martin, 2014-11-20 The Roman cult of Mithras was the most widely dispersed and densely distributed cult throughout the expanse of the Roman Empire from the end of the first until the fourth century AD rivaling the early growth and development of Christianity during the same period As its membership was largely drawn from the ranks of the military its spread but not its popularity is attributable largely to military deployments and re deployments Although mithraists left behind no written archival evidence there is an abundance of iconographic finds The only characteristic common to all Mithraic temples were the fundamental architecture of their design and the cult image of Mithras slaying a bull How were these two features so faithfully transmitted through the Empire by a non centralized non hierarchical religious movement The Minds of Mithraists Historical and Cognitive Studies in the Roman Cult of Mithras addresses these questions as well as the relationship of Mithraism to Christianity explanations of the significance of the tauroctony and of the rituals enacted in the mithraea and explanations for the spread of Mithraism and for its resistance in a few places The unifying theme throughout is an investigation of the mind of those engaged in the cult practices of this widespread ancient religion These investigations represent traditional historical methods as well as more recent studies employing the insights of the cognitive sciences demonstrating that cognitive historiography is a valuable methodological tool

Africa's Buildings Itohan I. Osayimwese, 2025-09-23 A groundbreaking history of Africa's looted architectural heritage and a bold proposal for the repatriation of the continent's stolen cultural artifacts Between the nineteenth century and today colonial officials collectors and anthropologists dismembered African buildings and dispersed their parts to museums in Europe and the United States Most of these artifacts were cataloged as ornamental art objects which erased their intended functions and the removal of these objects often had catastrophic consequences for the original structures Africa's Buildings traces the history of the collection and distribution of African architectural fragments documenting the brutality of the colonial regimes that looted Africa's buildings and addressing the ethical questions surrounding the display of these objects Itohan Osayimwese ranges across the whole of Africa from Egypt in the north to Zimbabwe in the south and spanning the western central and eastern regions of the continent She describes how collectors employed violent means to remove elements such as columns and door panels from buildings and how these methods differentiated architectural collecting from conventional collecting She shows how Western collectors mischaracterized building components as ornament erasing their architectural character and concealing the evidence of their theft Osayimwese discusses how the very act of displacing building parts like floor tiles and woven screen walls has resulted in a loss of knowledge about their original function and argues that because of these
