Species Survival In Fragmented Landscapes:

Species Survival in Fragmented Landscapes J. Settele, Chris Margules, Peter Poschlod, Klaus Henle, 2012-12-06 The effects of isolation area size and habitat quality on the survival of animal and plant populations in the cultural landscape are central aspects of a research project started in Germany in 1993 Forschungsverbund Isolation FHichengroBe und BiotopqualiHit abbreviated to FIFB After a long period of preparation scientists from seven universities and one research institution started to work within the frame of this project Funding for four years was provided by the former German Federal Ministry of Research and Technology BMFT now the Ministry of Education and Research BMBF A strong focus of the project has been the improvement of the methodology for environmental impact assessments and the implementation of results into environmental planning As there is a certain risk that national projects develop some kind of mental in breeding it was decided to discuss concepts methods and first results with scientists of international reputation at a rather early stage of the project For this purpose an international workshop was held in the small village of Lubast north of Leipzig state of Saxony in March 1995 130 scientists from 10 nations met to discuss and debate issues surrounding habitat fragmentation for three days Papers presented there formed the basis for this book As discussions included general reviews as well as particular case studies we decided to structure this book in a similar way Consequently a combination of broad and more general review like papers as well as original papers are presented Species Survival in Fragmented Landscapes Klaus Henle, 2004

Pasture Landscapes and Nature Conservation Bernd Redecker, Werner Härdtle, Peter Finck, Uwe Riecken, Eckhard Schröder, 2012-12-06 One of the main problems and aims of nature conservation in Europe is to protect semi open landscapes The development during the past decades is characterized by an ongoing intensification of land use on the one hand and an increasing number of former meadows and pastures lying fallow caused by changing economic conditions on the other hand In several countries the establishment of larger pasture landscapes with a mixed character of open grassland combined with shrubs and forests has been recognized as one solution to this problem The book gives an overview of the European projects concerning to this topic nature conservation policy and strategies scientific results and practical experiences creating large scale grazing systems Emerging Threats to Tropical Forests William F. Laurance, Carlos A. Peres, 2006-10 Publisher Description

Principles and Methods in Landscape Ecology Aldo Farina, 2008-01-22 Landscape ecology is an integrative and multi disciplinary science and Principles and Methods in Landscape Ecology reconciles the geological botanical zoological and human perspectives In particular new paradigms and theories such as percolation metapopulation hierarchies source sink models have been integrated in this last edition with the recent theories on bio complexity information and cognitive sciences Methods for studying landscape ecology are covered including spatial geometry models and remote sensing in order to create confidence toward techniques and approaches that require a high experience and long time dedication Principles and Methods in Landscape Ecology is a textbook useful to present the landscape in a multi vision perspective for undergraduate and graduate students of biology ecology geography forestry agronomy landscape architecture and planning Sociology economics history archaeology anthropology ecological psychology are some sciences that can benefit of the holistic vision offered by this textbook Landscape Analysis and Visualisation Christopher Pettit, William Cartwright, Ian Bishop, Kim Lowell, David Pullar, David Duncan, 2008-06-03 Michael Batty Centre for Advanced Spatial Analysis University College London Landscapes like cities cut across disciplines and professions This makes it especially difficult to provide an overall sense of how landscapes should be studied and researched Ecology aesthetics economy and sociology combine with physiognomy and deep physical structure to confuse our derstanding and the way we should react to the problems and potentials of landscapes Nowhere are these dilemmas and paradoxes so clearly highlighted as in Australia where landscapes dominate and their relationship to cities is so fragile yet so important to the sustainability of an entire nation if not planet This book presents a unique collection and synthesis of many of these perspectives perhaps it could only be produced in a land urb ised in the tiniest of pockets and yet so daunting with respect to the way non populated landscapes dwarf its cities Many travel to Australia to its cities and never see the landscapes but it is these that give the country its power and imagery It is the landscapes that so impress on us the need to consider how our intervention through activities ranging from resource exploitation and settled agriculture to climate change poses one of the greatest crises facing the modern world In this sense Australia and its landscape provide a mirror through which we can glimpse the extent to which our intervention in the world threatens its very existence A Resource-Based Habitat View for Conservation Roger L. H. Dennis, 2012-04-10 Winner of the Marsh Book of the Year Award 2012 by the British Ecological Society In A Resource Based Habitat View for Conservation Roger Dennis introduces a novel approach to the understanding of habitats based on resources and conditions required by organisms and their access to them a quantum shift from simplistic and ineffectual notions of habitats as vegetation units or biotopes In drawing attention to what organisms actually use and need in landscapes it focuses on resource composition structure and connectedness all of which describe habitat quality and underpin landscape heterogeneity This contrasts with the current bipolar view of landscapes made up of habitat patches and empty matrix but illustrates how such a metapopulation approach of isolated patchworks can grow by adopting the new habitat viewpoint The book explores principles underlying this new definition of habitat and the impact of habitat components on populations species distributions geographical ranges and range changes with a view to conserving resources in landscapes for whole communities It does this using the example of butterflies the most alluring of insects flagship organisms and key indicators of environmental health in the British Isles where they have been studied most intensively The book forms essential reading for students researchers and practitioners in ecology and conservation particularly those concerned with managing sites and landscapes for wildlife Foundations of Restoration Ecology Society for Ecological Restoration International, 2016-11 Society for Ecological Restoration Cover How Landscapes Change Gay A. Bradshaw, Pablo

Marquet,2002-12-06 North and South America share similar human and ecological histories and increasingly economic and social linkages As such issues of ecosystem functions and disruptions form a common thread among these cultures This volume synthesizes the perspectives of several disciplines such as ecology anthropology economy and conservation biology The chief goal is to gain an understanding of how human and ecological processes interact to affect ecosystem functions and species in the Americas Throughout the text the emphasis is placed on habitat fragmentation At the same time the book provides an overview of current theory methods and approaches used in the analysis of ecosystem disruptions and fragmentation Managing and Designing Landscapes for Conservation David B. Lindenmayer,Richard J. Hobbs,2008-04-15 The distinctive relationships between landscape change habitat fragmentation and biodiversity conservation are highlighted in this original and useful guide to the theory and practice of ecological landscape design Using original ecologically based landscape design principles the text underscores current thinking in landscape management and conservation It offers a blend of theoretical and practical information that is illustrated with case studies drawn from across the globe Key insights by some of the world s leading experts in landscape ecology and conservation biology make Managing and Designing Landscapes for Conservation an essential volume for anyone involved in landscape management natural resource planning or biodiversity conservation
