funding and in state and local preparedness activities for example in public health health care and the emergency response and public safety communities The national smallpox vaccination program is but one of many efforts to improve readiness to respond to deliberate releases of biologic agents The Institute of Medicine IOM Committee on Smallpox Vaccination Program Implementation was convened in October 2002 at the request of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention CDC the federal agency charged with implementing the government's policy of providing smallpox vaccine first to public health and health care workers on response teams then to all interested health care workers and other first responders and finally to members of the general public who might insist on receiving the vaccine The committee was charged with providing advice to the CDC and the program investigators on selected aspects of the smallpox program implementation and evaluation The committee met six times over 19 months and wrote a series of brief letter reports The Smallpox Vaccination Program Public Health in an Age of Terrorism constitutes the committee's seventh and final report and the committee hopes that it will fulfill three purposes 1 To serve as an archival document that brings together the six reports addressed to Julie Gerberding director of CDC and previously released on line and as short unbound papers 2 To serve as a historical document that summarizes milestones in the smallpox vaccination program and 3 To comment on the achievement of overall goals of the smallpox vaccination program in accordance with the last item in the charge including lessons learned from the program

The politics of vaccination Christine Holmberg, Stuart Blume, Paul Greenough, 2017-03-16 This electronic version has been made available under a Creative Commons BY NC ND open access license Mass vaccination campaigns are political projects that presume to protect individuals communities and societies Like other pervasive expressions of state power taxing policing conscripting mass vaccination arouses anxiety in some people but sentiments of civic duty and shared solidarity in others This collection of essays gives a comparative overview of vaccination at different times in widely different places and under different types of political regime Core themes in the chapters include immunisation as an element of state formation citizens articulation of seeing or not seeing their needs incorporated into public health practice allegations that donors of development aid have too much influence on third world health policies and an ideological shift that regards vaccines more as profitable commodities than as essential tools of public health

Empires of Panic Robert Peckham, 2015-01-01 Empires of Panic is the first book to explore how panics have been historically produced defined and managed across different colonial imperial and post imperial settings from early nineteenth century East Asia to twenty first century America Contributors consider panic in relation to colonial anxieties rumors indigenous resistance and crises particularly in relation to epidemic disease How did Western government agencies policymakers planners and other authorities understand deal with and neutralize panics What role did evolving technologies of communication play in the amplification of local panics into global events Engaging with these questions the book challenges conventional histories to show how intensifying processes of intelligence gathering did not consolidate empire but rather served to produce critical uncertainties the uneven terrain of imperial panic Robert Peckham is associate professor in the Department of History and co director of the Centre for the Humanities and Medicine at the University of Hong Kong Charting the relays of rumor and knowledge that stoke colonial fears of disease disorder and disaster Empires of Panic offers timely and cautionary insight into how viscerally epidemics inflame imperial anxieties and how words and their communication over new technologies accelerate panic rally government intervention and unsettle and entrench the exercise of global power Relevant a century ago and even more so today Nayan Shah University of Southern California author of Contagious Divides Epidemics and Race in San Francisco's Chinatown Empires generated anxiety as much as ambition This fine study focuses on anxieties generated by disease It is the first book of its kind to track shifting forms of panic through different geopolitical regimes and imperial formations over the course of two centuries Working across medical and imperial histories it is a major contribution to both Andrew S Thompson University of Exeter author of Empire and Globalisation Networks of People Goods and Capital in the British World c 1850 1914 with Gary B Magee Public Health Law Lawrence O. Driven by Fear Guenter B Risse, 2015-12-30 From the late nineteenth century until the 1920s authorities required San Francisco's Pesthouse to segregate the diseased from the rest of the city Although the Pesthouse stood out of sight and largely out of mind it existed at a vital nexus of civic life where issues of medicine race class environment morality and citizenship entwined and played out Guenter B Risse places this forgotten institution within an emotional climate dominated by widespread public dread and disgust In Driven by Fear he analyzes the unique form of stigma generated by San Franciscans Emotional states like xenophobia and racism played a part Yet the phenomenon also included competing medical paradigms and unique economic needs that encouraged authorities to protect the city's reputation as a haven of health restoration As Risse argues public health history requires an understanding of irrational as well as rational motives To that end he delves into the spectrum of emotions that drove extreme measures like segregation and isolation and fed psychological ideological and pragmatic urges to scapegoat and stereotype victims particularly Chinese victims of smallpox leprosy plague and syphilis Filling a significant gap in contemporary scholarship Driven by Fear looks at the past to offer critical lessons for our age of bioterror threats and emerging infectious diseases

Vietnamese Traditional Medicine C. Michele Thompson, 2015-06-30 While reshaping our understanding of the history and development of traditional Vietnamese medicine in the 19th and 20th centuries Michele Thompson's new book reaches across disciplines to open important perspectives in Vietnamese colonial and social history as well as our understanding of the Vietnamese language and writing systems Traditional Vietnamese medicine is generally understood as an import from the Chinese tradition Thompson's detailed historical and linguistic research restores agency and voice to practitioners of Vietnamese medicine showing how the adoption of Chinese and then Western ideas of medicine in the 19th and 20th centuries relied on indigenous Vietnamese concepts of health and the human body She mines medical manuscripts in Chinese and in Nom vernacular Vietnamese to capture various aspects of the historical interaction between Chinese and Vietnamese thought She presents a detailed analysis of the Vietnamese response to a Chinese medical technique for preventing smallpox and to the medical concepts associated with it looking at Vietnamese healers from a variety of social classes Thompson's account brings together colorful historical vignettes contemporary observations and interviews and textual analysis It stands out as a demonstration of the power of the history of medicine to illuminate adjacent fields of enquiry It will be of interest to historians of medicine globally and in East Asia as well as to students of Vietnam and its complex process of modernization

Law and Class in America Paul Carrington, Trina Jones, 2006-06 In Law and Class in America a group of leading legal scholars reflect on the state of the law from the end of the Cold War to the present grappling with a central question posed to them by Paul D Carrington and Trina Jones have recent legal reforms exacerbated class differences in America In a substantive introduction

Carrington and Jones assert that legal changes from the late 20th century onward have been increasingly elitist and unconcerned with the lives of poor people having little access to the legal system Contributors use this position as a springboard to review developments in their own particular fields and to assess whether or not legal decisions and processes have contributed to a widening gap between privileged and unprivileged people in this country From antitrust and bankruptcy to tax and election law the essays in this unique volume invite readers to reflect thoughtfully on socio economic justice in the new century and suggest that a lack of progressive reform in all areas of law may herald a form of undiagnosed class dominance reminiscent of America s Gilded Age Contributors Margaret A Berger M Gregg Bloche David L Callies Paul D Carrington Paul Y K Castle Lance Compa James D Cox Paula A Franzese Marc Galanter Julius G Getman Lawrence O Gostin Joel F Handler Trina Jones Thomas E Kauper Sanford Levinson John Linehan Joseph D McNamara Burt Neuborne Jeffrey O Connell Judith Resnik Richard L Schmalbeck Danielle Sarah Seiden Richard E Speidel Gerald Torres David M Trubek Elizabeth Warren and Lawrence A Zelenak

The Public Health Crisis Survival Guide Joshua M. Sharfstein, 2022-09-27 Before the COVID 19 pandemic I sometimes struggled to convince my students that crises matter Crises are not just distractions from the work of public health I insisted In the blink of an eye crises become the work of public health To aspiring health officials I might add A crisis might determine whether you succeed or fail in your job To future advocates I might point out A crisis might create your most powerful opportunity for change Public Health Law and Ethics Lawrence O. Leadership in Infectious Diseases and Public Health During Challenging Times Gonzalo Bearman, Priya Nori, 2025-06-05 Since the HIV epidemic the infectious diseases and public health communities faced numerous healthcare crises presented by novel viruses antimicrobial resistant bacteria or vaccine preventable illness that have re emerged Compounding these crises are lost trust in public health and policy healthcare workforce strain and disparities in healthcare outcomes disproportionately impacting marginalized communities In this book we conducted in depth interviews with luminaries whose careers span multiple aspects of infectious diseases and public health which will inform and inspire leaders navigating daily healthcare challenges within their own environment Conversations highlight shared challenges presented by multiple public health emergencies and reiterate themes of effective public communication during crises successful conflict negotiation and making difficult decisions for the greater good Through carefully selected and curated interviews readers will explore an in depth view of the effective leadership skills required to navigate the challenging outlook of modern healthcare These conversations with experts also explore emerging and future crises impacting our healthcare system including the crises of misinformation and climate change no such collection of carefully curated interviews with celebrated leaders in infectious diseases emerging infections and public health currently exists American Biodefense Frank L. Smith III, 2014-09-19 Biological weapons have threatened U S national security since at least World War II Historically however the U S military has neglected research development acquisition and doctrine for biodefense Following September 11 and the anthrax letters of 2001 the United States started spending billions of dollars per year on medical countermeasures and biological detection systems But most of this funding now comes from the Department of Health and Human Services rather than the Department of Defense Why has the U S military neglected biodefense and allowed civilian organizations to take the lead in defending the country against biological attacks In American Biodefense Frank L Smith III addresses this puzzling and largely untold story about science technology and national security Smith argues that organizational frames and stereotypes have caused both military neglect and the rise of civilian biodefense In the armed services influential ideas about kinetic warfare have undermined defense against biological warfare The influence of these ideas on science and technology challenges the conventional wisdom that national security policy is driven by threats or bureaucratic interests Given the ideas at work inside the U S military Smith explains how the lessons learned from biodefense can help solve other important problems that range from radiation weapons to cyber attacks

American Anthrax Jeanne Guillemin, 2024-03-26 From Jeanne Guillemin one of the world's leading experts on anthrax and bioterrorism the definitive account of the anthrax investigation It was the most complex case in FBI history In what became a seven year investigation that began shortly after 9 11 with America reeling from the terror attacks of al Qaeda virulent anthrax spores sent through the mail killed Bob Stevens a Florida tabloid photo editor His death and days later the discovery in New York and Washington D C of letters filled with anthrax sent shock waves through the nation Federal agencies were blindsided by the attacks which eventually killed five people Taken off guard the FBI struggled to combine on the ground criminal investigation with progress in advanced bioforensic analyses of the letters contents While the criminal eluded justice disinformation swirled around the letters erroneously linking them to Iraq's WMD threat and foreign bioterrorism Without oversight billions were lavished on biomedical defenses against anthrax and other exotic diseases Worst of all faith in federal justice faltered American Anthrax is a gripping tale of terror intrigue madness and cover up

Regulating Risks in the European Union Maria Weimer, Anniek de Ruijter, 2017-10-05 A growing body of EU law and regulation is preoccupied with the protection of EU citizens from health and environmental risks Which chemicals are safe and should be allowed on the market How should the EU respond to public health emergencies such as Ebola and other infectious diseases Regulatory responses to these questions confront deep uncertainty limited knowledge and societal contestation In a time where the use of scientific expertise in EU policy making is particularly contested this book offers a timely contribution to both the academic and policy debate on the role of specialised expertise in EU public decision making on risk and technology as well as on its intertwinement with executive power It draws on insights from law governance political sciences and science and technology studies bringing together leading scholars in this field Contributions are drawn together by a shared theoretical perspective namely by their use of co production as an analytical lens to study the intricate interplay between techno scientific expertise and EU executive power By so doing this collection produces highly original insights into the development of the EU administrative state as well as into the role of regulatory science in its construction This book will be useful to scholars practitioners and policy makers working on risk regulation and the role of expertise in public decision making
