Hearing Voices takes a fresh look at sound in the poetry and prose of colonial Latin American poet and nun Sor Juana In s de la Cruz 1648 51 95 A voracious autodidact Sor Juana engaged with early modern music culture in a way that resonates deeply in her writing Despite the privileging of harmony within Sor Juana s work however links between the poet s musical inheritance and subjects such as acoustics cognition writing and visual art have remained unexplored These lacunae have marginalized nonmusical aurality and contributed to the persistence of both ocularcentrism and a corresponding visual dominance in scholarship on Sor Juana and indeed in early modern cultural production in general As in many areas of her work Sor Juana s engagement with acoustical themes restructures gendered discourses and transposes them to a feminine key Hearing Voices focuses on these aural conceits in highlighting the importance of sound and in most cases its relationship with gender in Sor Juana s work and early modern culture Sarah Finley explores attitudes toward women s voices and music making intersections of music rhetoric and painting aurality in Baroque visual art sound and ritual and the connections between optics and acoustics Finley demonstrates how Sor Juana s striking aurality challenges ocularcentric interpretations and problematizes paradigms that pin vision to logos writing and other empirical models that traditionally favor men s voices

Sound becomes a vehicle for women's agency and responds to anxiety about the female voice particularly in early modern convent culture
