The Last Best of All Times Robert A. Semenza, 2007 Robert Semenza has always considered himself fortunate to have been brought up in what may have been in his mind the last best of all times an era that spanned only a little more than a decade and a half from the early forties to the midfifties from World War II to the Korean police action from FDR to Harry the buck stops here Truman to Ike He was even more blessed to be raised in an environment where he was surrounded by a wealth of love and warmth from our parents and a seemingly unlimited number of relatives and piasians however the adults in our lives were there only when we needed them sort of a Charlie Brown type of existence but without his anxiety He felt that all his wonderful memories would be lost forever and wanted to preserve them for the generations to follow His tale is told in a self effacing way and from the perspective of a young boy being raised in the West a neighborhood in New Rochelle New York of Italians and colored people you never called them blacks or African Americans unless you were prepared for a fight and the rest of civilization referred to simply as the Americans It tells of his Tom Sawyer Huck Finn type of youthful adventures and mishaps centered around a cast of colorful and unforgettable characters that roamed the streets of the West from the likes of the Goat Man who would proudly parade his goats down Union Avenue and whose route was undeniably marked by a trail of small round soft black pellets which the goats expelled as they merrily strolled to their noonday repast presumably to make more pellets to the Iron Horse to Louie Chicken Breast and to a whole host of other characters As he explains they were just there and accepted as they were except that they like everyone else in the neighborhood had a nickname which was generally linked to their physical appearance which in each case was obvious He has attempted the impossible task of trying to list all of these nicknames his nickname was Chesty the reader will learn why His personal memories transport the reader back to that time and to his boyish recollections of his family the school the church the Boys Club the games they invented and the special joys brought by each season of the year www.readerscircle.org

choice retrieve an energy source that his people desperately need or die It isn't much of a choice so the three set out for a fortress city guided by a soldier named Matsuge Succeed or die There is no other way The Last Best Place John Demont, 2012-10-23 A writer returns to Nova Scotia and finding it almost unrecognizable sets out to capture the essence of his ancestral province a place as strange and wild as anywhere on the continent John DeMont visits places as diverse as a Buddhist abbey the first free black settlement outside Africa an island that harbours pirate treasure and a backwoods barndance where the music of 18th century Scotland lives on He visits tuna smugglers and moonshiners the brooding painter Alex Colville spiritual seekers from Japan the US and Europe and Anne Murray's greatest Austrian fans He also races yachts with summer residents patrols the coast for drug smugglers with the Mounties and casts for salmon with the wisest fishing guides A road book with a difference and an endearing search for home The Last Best Place is wry and wise as quirky and lively as Nova Scotia itself The Last Best Hope Jack Sholl, 2012-05-24 Throughout history wars in Eastern Europe have claimed the lives of countless numbers of innocent people When a genocidal bloodbath erupts in the Balkans amid the fall of Soviet Communism and its satellite countries an unlikely American seizes the opportunity to return to the land of his birth to end the carnage and corruption that has ripped his native country apart at the seams and created merciless brutality between ancient warring enemies New found hope lies in the hands of a native son come home in this screenplay of political intrigue international diplomacy and economic and corporate chicanery Freedom and democracy triumph over totalitarianism in this fictional portrait of courage love and determination in the largest and deadliest mass murder in Europe since the horrors of WWII The Last Best Place? Leah Schmalzbauer, 2014-08-27 Southwest Montana is beautiful country evoking mythologies of freedom and escape long associated with the West Partly because of its burgeoning presence in popular culture film and literature including William Kittredge's anthology The Last Best Place the scarcely populated region has witnessed an influx of wealthy white migrants over the last few decades But another largely invisible and unstudied type of migration is also present Though Mexican migrants have worked on Montana's ranches and farms since the 1920s increasing numbers of migrant families both documented and undocumented are moving to the area to support its growing construction and service sectors The Last Best Place asks us to consider the multiple racial and class related barriers that Mexican migrants must negotiate in the unique context of Montana's rural gentrification These daily life struggles and inter group power dynamics are deftly examined through extensive interviews and ethnography as are the ways gender structures inequalities within migrant families and communities But Leah Schmalzbauer's research extends even farther to highlight the power of place and demonstrate how Montana's geography and rurality intersect with race class gender family illegality and transnationalism to affect migrants well being and aspirations Though the New West is just one among many new destinations it forces us to recognize that the geographic subjectivities and intricacies of these destinations must be taken into account to understand the full complexity of migrant life The Last Best Cure Donna Jackson
