The Kid From Brooklyn:

Combat Death in Contemporary American Culture Agnieszka Soltysik Monnet, 2020-12-16 Combat Death in Contemporary American Culture Popular Cultural Conceptions of War since World War II explores how war has been portrayed in the United States since World War II with a particular focus on an emotionally charged but rarely scrutinized topic combat death Agnieszka Soltysik Monnet argues that most stories about war use three main building blocks melodrama adventure and horror Monnet examines how melodrama and adventure have helped make war seem acceptable to the American public by portraying combat death as a meaningful sacrifice and by making military killing look necessary and often even pleasurable Horror no longer serves its traditional purpose of making the bloody realities of war repulsive but has instead been repurposed in recent years to intensify the positivity of melodrama and adventure Thus this book offers a fascinating diagnosis of how war stories perform ideological and emotional work and why they have such a powerful grip on the American imagination Brooklyn Michael W. Robbins, Wendy Palitz, 2001-01-01 A celebration of Brooklyn features more than one hundred original articles that tap into the life of America's Hometown THE KID FROM BROOKLYN Don Hartman, Melville Shavelson, 1946 The Brooklyn Film John B. strip mall That s progress and in this 20 screen multiplex world it s happening more and more Only a handful of the 100 or so neighborhood theatres that once graced these streets are left in San Francisco but they live on in the photographs featured in this book The heyday of such venues as the Clay Noe Metro New Mission Alexandria Coronet Fox Uptown Coliseum Surf El Rey and Royal was a time when San Franciscans thronged to the movies and vaudeville shows dressed to the hilt to see and be seen in majestic art deco palaces Unfortunately this era has passed into history despite the dedicated efforts of many neighborhood preservation groups

Sucker Punch Amanda J Field, 2023-10-16 The 1930s 40s and 50s were the heyday of the boxing film attracting some of the biggest stars of the time including Errol Flynn James Cagney Kirk Douglas and Paul Newman and some of the best directors Yet it is a genre that has received little critical attention apart from a few films singled out because they can be categorised as film noir It would be easy to assume therefore that the typical boxing film of this period was a dark melodrama with the tragic and doomed figure of the boxer at its centre but that gives a false picture of a genre that included comedies and costume dramas among its 130 plus films Sucker Punch invites the reader to take a wider look at the scope and breadth of the genre by providing a detailed discussion of 20 boxing films a selection from each decade from Hollywood and British studios Some such as Body and Soul have become part of the established canon of Film Studies while lighter fare such as Ringside Maisie or Gentleman Jim have been overlooked by the critics but are worthy of re-examination not simply because they are enjoyable films in their own right but also because they offer insights into social attitudes of the times The book draws on contemporary sources such as trade paper film reviews as well as modern academic criticism to build a highly readable account of the development of the boxing genre and its narrative conventions
