Excerpt: CHAPTER V CHINESE CITIES AND VILLAGES A Chinese city viewed from a distance. Fire walls. Suburbs. Foochow. f u. The great bridge. Streets. Shops. Signboards. Walls. Boats. Villages. Huts. Village life. Village warfare. Hired braves. Robbers. Government interference. Settled communities. The typical Chinese city when viewed from a distance presents a vast area of tiled roofs rising to a nearly uniform height and a network of narrow alleys and streets. In most of the densely populated towns the roads are so contracted and the overlapping eaves of the houses so broad as to convey the idea that the place is made up of one unbroken mass of human dwellings but in cities such as Peking and Nanking there are many straight wide roads and open breathing spaces. These two cities however are the ancient and modern capitals of China for which reason they were specially laid out to accommodate the imperial Court and the aristocracy. In towns where available space is really of greater importance to the people sunlight and pure air appear to be carefully excluded hence all the inhabitants who may desire to cheer themselves by a glimpse of the blue sky and a draught of the passing breeze must resort to their house tops which are commonly decked with rows of fragrant flowers set out in pots and surrounded with ornamental rails marking the limits of a small wooden platform. Running along the ridges of the roofs numerous jars may also be seen filled with water to the brim so as to afford a ready resource in case of fire. They have no fire engines and indeed only those of the most portable kind would be of any service since otherwise they could never be conveyed to the scene of a conflagration. We may also notice that the close packed The Land and People of China, Etc. [With Plates.]. Hermann Derek BRYAN, 1964 The Land and the People of China J. Thomson, 2015-07-23 Excerpt from The Land and the People of China. A Short Account of the Geography, History, Religion, Social Life, Art, Industries, and Government of China Ad Its People. The geographical position which China occupies in Eastern Asia and the physical features of the country itself are so remarkable as in some measure to account both for the antiquity of the empire and for the long continued isolation of its people. Shut in all round by the vast mountain chains of Manchuria, Mongolia and Thibet, the dependencies of the modern empire and watered by a river system unsurpassed in the world, the low lying plains of China proper were prepared for tillage in times long previous to the advent of their present inhabitants by a gradual process of denudation in the highlands and the resulting deposit of alluvia carried seawards with the streams The land was thus made ready for its busy occupants and the soil rendered suitable by its depth and richness for maintaining a large population About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
