Neurotransmitter Interactions and Cognitive Function Edward D. Levin, 2006-11-18 Cognitive function involves the participation of many different neurotransmitter systems in a variety of brain areas The centerpiece of investigation regarding cognitive function has classically been the cholinergic system but it has become increasingly clear that other transmitter systems interact with cholinergic systems to provide the neural basis for cognitive function This book brings together cutting edge research to determine how the transmitter interactions form the mechanistic bases for attention learning and memory This research on transmitter interactions not only provides a more accurate though complex picture of how the brain works to provide cognitive function it also provides important new levels of understanding about the mechanisms of cognitive dysfunction and novel avenues for therapeutic treatment The researchers who contributed to this volume both reviewed the latest findings but also point to the directions of advancement of the field of neurotransmitter interactions and cognitive function

Reul,2005-03-24 The Handbook of Stress and the Brain focuses on the impact of stressful events on the functioning of the central nervous system how stress affects molecular and cellular processes in the brain and in turn how these brain processes determine our perception of and reactivity to stressful challenges acutely and in the long run Written for a broad scientific audience the Handbook comprehensively reviews key principles and facts to provide a clear overview of the interdisciplinary field of stress The work aims to bring together the disciplines of neurobiology physiology immunology psychology and psychiatry to provide a reference source for both the non clinical and clinical expert as well as serving as an introductory text for novices in this field of scientific inquiry Part 1 addresses basic aspects of the neurobiology of the stress response including the involvement of neuropeptide neuroendocrine and neurotransmitter systems and its corollaries regarding gene expression and behavioural processes such as cognition motivation and emotionality Provides an overview of recent advances made in stress research Includes timely discussion of stress and its effect on the immune system Presents novel treatment strategies targeting brain processes involved in stress processing and coping mechanisms Biomedical Index to PHS-supported Research ,1987 Neural Implementations of Expertise Merim Bilalić, Robert

Langner,Guillermo Campitelli,Luca Turella,Wolfgang Grodd,2015-12-18 When we think about expertise we usually consider people who master tasks at a level not reachable by most other people Although we rarely realise it however most humans are experts in many aspects of everyday life This expertise enables us to find our way through a complex environment that is our life For instance we can instantly recognise multiple objects and relations between them to form a meaningful unit such as an office Thus research on expertise is not only important to investigate the cognitive and neural processes within an elite group but it is also a powerful tool to understand how everyone can acquire complex skills The goal of this Research Topic is to shed further light on the common and distinct neural mechanisms that implement various kinds of expertise We broadly define expertise as skill in any perceptual cognitive social or motor domain with the common core being optimised information processing due to knowledge acquired from repeated experiences Thus we are interested in the full range of mental processes modulated or modified by expertise from simple object or pattern recognition to complex decision making or problem solving in a particular domain These domains can range from everyday or occupational expertise to sports and rather artificial domains such as board games In all cases the aim should be to elucidate how the brain implements these sometimes incredible feats We are particularly interested in connecting cognitive theories about expertise and expertise related performance differences with models and data on the neural implementation of expertise We welcome original research contributions using the full range of behavioural neuroscience methods as well as theoretical methodological or historical reviews and opinion papers focusing on any of the above mentioned aspects Neurocognitive disorders and depression - complex interrelationships Katarzyna Milana Broczek,Marie-Christine Gely-Nargeot,Pietro Gareri,2023-03-02

The Neuropsychiatry of Epilepsy Michael R. Trimble,Bettina Schmitz,2011-06-09 Research into the neuropsychiatry of epilepsy has become a central focus of interest in the last five years Comorbidity of epilepsy with behavioral problems is now recognized widely and the neuroscientific basis for such comorbidity is an active area of investigation With an expanded international team of authors this fully revised new edition builds on the strengths of its predecessor examining in detail the subtleties of behavioral changes in patients with seizure disorders and offering both a diagnostic and a management perspective New chapters cover genetic disorders the effects of epilepsy on social behavior as viewed through theory of mind a discussion of the precuneus the importance and nature of peri ictal psychiatric symptoms depression and the interictal dysphoric disorder and the relationship between antiepileptic drugs and suicide This new edition is a must for anyone involved in diagnosing or managing epilepsy
