Willison,1971-07-02 More than fifty specialists have contributed to this new edition of volume 2 of The Cambridge Bibliography of English Literature The design of the original work has established itself so firmly as a workable solution to the immense problems of analysis articulation and coordination that it has been retained in all its essentials for the new edition The task of the new contributors has been to revise and integrate the lists of 1940 and 1957 to add materials of the following decade to correct and refine the bibliographical details already available and to re shape the whole according to a new series of conventions devised to give greater clarity and consistency to the entries Sketches of a History of Literature Robert Alves,1794 A Catalog of the Curious and Extensive Library of the Late James Perry, Esq. ... James Perry,1822 A catalogue of the ... library of ... respectively to the establishment of the Asiatic Society in Calcutta in 1784 presided by Sir William Jones until 1794 Contrary to the Saidian premise of an invention of the East by the West Gallien argues that orientalist did not invent a canon but they transferred and translated texts and authors which who were already recognised as canonical across Islamicate literary cultures Given the above the question that preoccupies this book is what happens to the canon when partially re created and re purposed for European readers Organised in three main parts this book analyses first the constitution of collections of Arabic Persian and Indic manuscripts and their cataloguing in England in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries The second part investigates the variety of linguistic and literary partitioning and assemblage proposed by orientalist and discusses how their classical literary formation underpinned theories and practices of imitation translation and writing The third part examines the editing and translating of Arabic Persian and Indic literatures in seventeenth and eighteenth century England as well as in British colonial India and in particular the function of specimens and anthologies in the constitution of a corpus of Eastern literatures in English
