Women in Soviet Society Gail

Warshofsky Lapidus, 1978-01-01 From the earliest years of the Soviet regime deliberate transformation of the role of women in economic political and family life aimed at incorporating female mobilization into a larger strategy of national development Addressing a neglected problem in the literature on modernization the author brings an interdisciplinary approach to the analysis of the motivations mechanisms and consequences of the official Soviet commitment to female liberation and its implications for the role of women in Soviet society today She argues that Soviet policy was shaped less by the individualistic and libertarian concerns of nineteenth century feminism or Marxism than by a strategy of modernization in which the transformation of women's roles was perceived by the Soviet leadership as the means of tapping a major economic and political resource Bringing together the available data the author analyzes the scope and limits of sexual equality in the Soviet system and at the same time places the Soviet pattern in a broader historical and comparative perspective Jacket

Civil

Society, Social Change, and a New Popular Education in Russia W. John Morgan, Irina N. Trofimova, Grigori A.

Kliucharev, 2018-10-03 Civil Society Social Change and a New Popular Education in Russia is a detailed account of contemporary issues that draws upon recent survey research conducted by the Institute of Sociology Russian Academy of Sciences as well as from secondary published work in both Russian and English The book explores how social change and developments in civil society are occurring in Russia and the role played by a new popular education The right to lifelong learning is guaranteed by the Russian state as it was by the Soviet Union where formal education based on communist ideology emphasised the needs of the state over those of individuals In practice a wide range of educational needs many of which relate to coping with changing economic social and technological circumstances are being met by non governmental providers including commercial companies self help groups and community and neighbourhood clubs This book discusses how this new popular education is both an example of developing civil society and stimulates its further development However as the book points out it is also part of a growing educational divide where motivated articulate people take advantage of new opportunities while disadvantaged groups such as the unemployed and the rural poor continue to be excluded
