Global Mental Health in Times of Pandemic and Migration Malek Bajbouj, Eric Hahn, Ghayda Hassan, Tam Thi Minh Ta, 2022-02-17 Family and Gendered Violence and Conflict Ruchi Sinha, Pekham Basu, 2024-11-19 This reference work collates academic discourses and practices around family gender and violence in social work A huge body of discourse is available that categorizes and labels acts of violence and correspondingly practices that pin blame responsibility for the violence These have led to evolution of intervention strategies to resolve or address the violence Some explanations foreground systemic causes others look at person centric causes The two views bring forth the fundamental ontological divide of structuralism and individualism The question for social workers to debate is what to factor in while working with families experiencing violence and conflict What amongst the person the agency or the structure needs to be addressed to understand the experience of families in conflict and violence Are these positions supplementary complementary or to be understood reflexively With the inclusion of new families the parochial understanding of families has long been dislodged and given way to newer radical and contextual understanding of families

Similarly different people agencies and states understand violence and conflict differently Gender too has moved from the binaries of male and female to the gender diverse LGBTQIA identities The book positions the ontological premise on which the epistemological practise is located Simply put the person centric ontology on families and violence epistemologically finds understanding in agency based approaches in individual agency whereas the structure based approaches find the experience of families and violence in society state and the world order The contributors locate their work around identification definition an intervention or empirical study policy analysis historical evolution of concepts and ontological and paradigmatic debates to position their individual chapters Family and Gendered Violence and Conflict Pan Continent Reach provides a paradigmatic prism for practice for social workers who are equipped to interpret context differently The differing and competing paradigmatic lenses cannot be mediated resolved or addressed but they definitely can be understood and debated to provide a 360 degree lens on the issues of families in violence in the gendered context The reference work is a useful resource for social work practitioners educators academicians researchers and other development professionals

Trauma Rehabilitation After War and Conflict Erin Martz, 2010-04-15 As foreign assistance flows into post conflict regions to rebuild economies, roads and schools, it is important that development professionals retain a focus on the purely human element of rebuilding lives and societies. This book provides perspective on just how to begin that process so that the trauma people suffered is not passed on to future generations long after the violence has stopped. Amy T. Wilson, Ph.D., Gallaudet University, Washington DC. This ground breaking text provides the reader with an excellent and comprehensive overview of the existing field of trauma rehabilitation. It also masterfully navigates the intricate relationships among theory, research and practice, leaving the reader with immense appreciation for its subject matter. Hanoch Livneh, Ph.D., LPC, CRC, Portland State University. Fear, terror, helplessness, rage for soldier and civilian alike: the psychological costs of war are staggering. And for those traumatized by chronic armed conflict, healing, recovery and closure can seem like impossible goals. Demonstrating wide ranging knowledge of the vulnerabilities and resilience of war survivors, the collaborators on Trauma Rehabilitation after War and Conflict analyze successful rehabilitative processes and intervention programs in conflict affected areas of the world. Its dual focus on individual and community healing builds on the concept of the protective trauma membrane, a component crucial to coping and healing, to humanitarian efforts, though one which is often passed over in favor of rebuilding infrastructure and to promoting and sustaining peace. The book's multiple perspectives, including public health, community based systems and trauma focused approaches, reflect the complex psychological, social and emotional stresses faced by survivors to provide authoritative information on salient topics such as psychological rehabilitation of U.S. veterans.
