Modern Death in Irish and Latin American Literature Jacob L. Bender,2020-09-22 This comparative literature study explores how writers from across Ireland and Latin America have both in parallel and in concert deployed symbolic representations of the dead in their various anti colonial projects In contrast to the ghosts and revenants that haunt English and Anglo American letters where they are largely either monstrous horrors or illusory frauds the dead in these Irish Latinx archives can serve as potential allies repositories of historical grievances recorders of silenced voices and disruptors of neocolonial discourse

The Last Word Justin Gautreau,2020-10-02 The Last Word argues that the Hollywood novel opened up space for cultural critique of the film industry at a time when the industry lacked the capacity to critique itself While the young studio system worked tirelessly to burnish its public image in the wake of celebrity scandal several industry insiders wrote fiction to fill in what newspapers and fan magazines left out Throughout the 1920s and 1930s these novels aimed to expose the invisible machinery of classical Hollywood cinema including not only the evolving artifice of the screen but also the promotional discourse that complemented it As likeminded filmmakers in the 1940s and 1950s gradually brought the dark side of the industry to the screen however the Hollywood novel found itself struggling to live up to its original promise of delivering the unfilmable By the 1960s desperate to remain relevant the genre had devolved into little more than erotic fantasy of movie stars behind closed doors perhaps the only thing the public couldn't already find elsewhere Still given their unique ability to speak beyond the institutional restraints of their time these earlier works offer a window into the industry's dynamic creation and re creation of itself in the public imagination

Songs from the Borderlands Claudia Valenzuela,2024-12-17 Torn apart by the chaos of a desperate border crossing siblings Miguel and Elena Reyes find themselves adrift in a sea of fragmented memories and unanswered questions Their childhood in Agua Prieta Mexico a vibrant tapestry of family tradition and the ever present melodies of corridos is shattered in an instant The desert once a shimmering mirage of hope now whispers of loss and separation Miguel armed with a battered guitar navigates the bustling streets of Austin Texas pouring his grief and longing into hauntingly beautiful music His melodies imbued with the raw emotion of his experience become anthems of resilience resonating with the marginalized and transforming into a powerful call for social change Yet the ghost of a forgotten lullaby continues to haunt him a nagging reminder of the past he desperately seeks to reclaim Meanwhile Elena driven by a profound empathy born from her own experience becomes a fearless journalist in Nogales Arizona giving voice to the voiceless along the border As she delves deeper into the heart of migrant stories she stumbles upon whispers of vanishing children a chilling government conspiracy and a truth more devastating than she could have ever imagined From the vibrant music scene of Austin to the treacherous legal landscape of the border Songs from the Borderlands weaves a powerful tale of displacement identity and the enduring strength of family As Miguel and Elena s parallel journeys converge they unearth layers of bureaucratic indifference and systemic corruption their paths leading them toward a dramatic confrontation with the forces that tore them apart Will the forgotten lullaby a haunting melody from their childhood unlock the secrets of their past and lead them back to each other Or will the desert wind continue to whisper of loss and separation
