Sound Barrier Poems 198:

Fleur Adcock Janet Wilson, 2007 This study discusses Adcock as a writer who draws on her experiences of dislocation in order to position herself between cultures It relocates her work within the postwar British poetic mainstream by emphasizing that her radically displaced feminized consciousness can be identified as metonymic of national and cultural differences Janet Wilson argues that diasporic voices such as hers which renegotiate boundaries between self and other although originating from white settler colonies like New Zealand now belong to multicultural Britain Her close readings of Adcock's verse in terms of its ironic double vision focus on the blend of classical restraint wit and humour in relation to her complex revaluation of the diasporic imaginary of the exile In arguing that Adcock's personal mythology based on her divided nationality and gendered consciousness separates her from modernist exile writers like James Joyce and her fellow expatriate Katherine Mansfield and aligns her with contemporary transnational figures like the New Zealand writer Janet Frame the Australian born poet Peter Porter and V S Naipaul Wilson claims that hers is a voice for our times BOOK JACKET

Poetry Index Annual, 1990 The Select Poetry of Sir Walter Scott Walter Scott, 1833 Utamakura, Allusion, and Intertextuality in Traditional Japanese Poetry Edward Kamens, Howard I. Kamens, 1997-01-01 Kamens focuses especially on one figure the buried tree which refers to fossilized wood associated in particular with an utamakura site the Natori River and is mentioned in poems that first appear in anthologies in the early tenth century The figure surfaces again at many points in the history of traditional Japanese poetry as do the buried trees themselves in the shallow waters that otherwise conceal them After explaining and discussing the literary history of the concept of utamakura Kamens traces the allusive and intertextual development of the figure of the buried tree and the use of the place name Natorigawa in waka poetry through the late nineteenth century He investigates the relationship between utamakura and the collecting of fetishes and curios associated with utamakura sites by waka connoisseurs From the Wright Brothers to Top Gun Michael Paris, 1995 The cinema and aviation developed alongside each other and were both products of the technology and imagination of the early 20th century This book examines the ways in which aeroplanes and flying have been portrayed in the many different genres within popular cinema from Hollywood epics to comedy spoofs to modern tragedies It covers over 500 American and British films including The Dambusters The High and the Mighty Airplane Top Gun and The Shadowmakers The Beginnings of Poetry Francis Barton Gummere, 2021-11-05 In The Beginnings of Poetry Francis Barton Gummere embarks on an insightful exploration of the origins and evolution of poetic expression tracing its roots from prehistoric traditions to the intricate forms of early literature Gummere's meticulous scholarship is evident in his analysis of linguistic structures thematic elements and the socio cultural contexts that shaped early poetry Employing a blend of critical examination and engaging narrative he reveals the organic relationship between oral traditions and the written word while deftly situating these developments within the broader literary canon Francis Barton Gummere 1862 1932 was a renowned scholar of English philology and literature deeply influenced by his academic background in both classic and contemporary literary studies His dedication to understanding poetry extends beyond mere textual analysis Gummere s passion for language and folklore is reflected in his commitment to capturing the essence of human experience as conveyed through poetic forms This book serves as a testament to his belief that poetry is not merely an art form but a vital aspect of cultural heritage and expression For readers The Beginnings of Poetry is an indispensable resource that illuminates the significance of poetry as an art form and a historical narrative Whether one is a scholar seeking a deeper understanding of early poetic traditions or a general reader intrigued by the power of language Gummere s work provides a profound appreciation of the lyrical roots that connect us all

Sinaiko,1998-03-30 Herman Sinaiko is renowned for his gifts as a guide to exploring and appreciating the humanities This book brings to general readers Sinaiko s thoughts on and invitations to read or reread a wide selection of major literary and philosophical works from ancient Greek to Chinese to modern Taking a conversational approach he deals with the perennial questions that thinking people have always raised and investigates how works of great art may provide answers to these questions Sinaiko reestablishes the notion that there is a canon of great works from the great traditions of the world and argues for the existence of permanent standards of excellence He rejects most contemporary critical views of classical literature and philosophy including those of experts who seek to monopolize access to great works academics whose extreme emphasis on historical context disallows any current relevance and theorists whose lenses distort with personal bias rather than sharpening focus on the works they discuss Sinaiko reclaims the canon for all of us opening up discussion on texts ranging from Plato to Tolstoy Confucius to Mary Shelley and encouraging each reader to listen and respond to the rich diversity of powerful views on the human condition that such great works offer
