Sunship Earth:

Sustainable Communities, Sustainable Environments, 2007-01-01 Sustainable Communities Sustainable Environments
What is enacted when we engage with these ideas Sustainability is a term increasingly used to describe the broader purpose and goal for education as we move further into the UN declared Decade of Education for Sustainable Development UNDESD This book provides a variety of international perspectives from the traditional fields of science and technology education as teachers primary through tertiary teacher educators and academic researchers engage with this topic The book provides a collection of new works which will help to describe for educators what it is we develop and what it is we sustain when we engage in education for sustainable development ESD

Paradise Lot Eric Toensmeier, Jonathan Bates, 2013-02-08 In this vivid and engaging work Eric Toensmeier entices us with his journey as an example explaining what to do and what mistakes to avoid to develop our own versions of an edible urban paradise Toby Hemenway author of Gaia's Garden When Eric Toensmeier and Jonathan Bates moved into a duplex in a run down part of Holyoke Massachusetts the tenth of an acre lot was barren ground and bad soil peppered with broken pieces of concrete asphalt and brick The two friends got to work designing what would become not just another urban farm but a permaculture paradise replete with perennial broccoli paw paws bananas and moringa all told more than two hundred low maintenance edible plants in an innovative food forest on a small city lot The garden intended to function like a natural ecosystem with the plants themselves providing most of the garden's needs for fertility pest control and weed suppression also features an edible water garden a year round unheated greenhouse tropical crops urban poultry and even silkworms In telling the story of Paradise Lot Toensmeier explains the principles and practices of permaculture the choice of exotic and unusual food plants the techniques of design and cultivation and of course the adventures mistakes and do overs in the process Packed full of detailed useful information about designing a highly productive permaculture garden Paradise Lot is also a funny and charming story of two single guys both plant nerds with a wild plan to realize the garden of their dreams and meet women to share it with Amazingly on both counts they succeed This is permaculture for the rest of us Best of all Paradise Lot is fun to read It overflows with love love of plants love of land love of adventuring on the edge of knowledge and love of living It's hard to put down I read it in two large gulps Carol Deppe author of The Resilient Gardener and Breed Your Own Vegetable Varieties

Diversity in Environmental Education Research, 2009-01-01 Research in environmental education EE is a growing field of inquiry and should be seen as respondent to a variety of program developments around the world These diverse programs are the context for this body of educational research Diversity in EE research is also compounded when one considers the various cultures epistemologies and research traditions that may inform the field This complexity accounts for the range of forms for environmental learning in formal informal or non formal contexts There is a good deal of evidence that in order to be more responsive to the needs of diverse populations program developments around the world are now beginning to reflect the variation in our society

However the same cannot always be said in terms of research methodologies within mainstream environmental education research. Outside of a few examples there seems to have been very little in the way of development of research genres aimed at understanding characterizing and supporting cultural diversity within much of mainstream environmental education. Diversity of method may also be important for the overall quality or health of environmental education research. To locate many of the new ideas and approaches in this area one needs to look outside environmental education towards general educational research or to other fields such as environmental justice, indigenous education, science education and health education to name only a few examples. This volume of original research reports from around the globe begins to richly describe aspects of diversity in environmental education research. It does so in two ways: first it mirrors the diversity of voices and cultures that are conducting research in this ever broadening and increasingly global and international field of inquiry; second it illuminates a potential diversity of research methods by highlighting a range of methodologies salient in other fields which have emerging promise for the practice of research in environmental education.

Environmental Education is the need of the hour. Environmental Education will make us aware about the environmental problems that loom over our heads and will equip us with knowledge to overcome these problems. Children who are the future of tomorrow have a critical role to play in making this world a better place to live in. They can act only if they understand why environmental problems arise and how they should be tackled.

Picture ecology High Moon, 1998-11. This publication translated from the original Japanese discusses global environmental problems from the viewpoint of individual ecological responsibility. Through text and humorous yet compelling cartoons the author brings attention to the causes and solutions of environmental problems related to excessive waste, energy consumption, toxic chemicals and nature conservation. The proposed solutions suggest individual lifestyle changes to affect preservation of the environment. A number of tables and figures present supporting data.
