Leow, 2019-02-11 The Routledge Handbook of Second Language Research in Classroom Learning is a comprehensive psycholinguistic approach to the issue of instructed language learning that is uniquely theoretical, methodological, empirical, pedagogical, and curricular. Bringing together empirical studies with theoretical underpinnings, this handbook focuses on conceptual replications, extensions, and new research on classroom learning or Instructed SLA (ISLA). In chapters from leading experts, the Handbook reports on the tenets of several models that have postulated the roles of cognitive processes in the L2 learning process and also covers two major methodological data elicitation procedures to be employed in addressing learner cognitive processes: think aloud protocols and eye tracking. With a dedicated interest in the role of this research in pedagogical ramifications, this handbook strives for deeper understanding of how L2 learners process L2 data in instructional settings. Computational Thinking for the Modern Problem Solver David D. Riley, Kenny A. Hunt, 2014-03-27 Through examples and analogies, Computational Thinking for the Modern Problem Solver introduces computational thinking as part of an introductory computing course and shows how computer science concepts are applicable to other fields. It keeps the material accessible and relevant to noncomputer science majors. It covers abstraction, algorithms, logic, graph theory, social issues of software, and numeric modeling, as well as execution control, problem solving strategies, testing, and data encoding and organizing. The text also discusses fundamental concepts of programming, including variables and assignment, sequential execution, selection, repetition, control, abstraction, data organization, and concurrency. The authors present the algorithms using language-independent notation.
