The ART and MYSTERY of Printing Emblematically Displayed.

Devil with Devil's Amos's
From several holders. Mrs. only. Allegory.
Of another's nature. Pencil. Leth. B. 21. 494.

Mr. BAYNE.

I was going the other day into Lincoln's-inn, under the great gate-way, I met several folks and boys of different sorts, loaded with some such great bundles of news-papers, led by a fully fellow, who turned round and dropped them in the gutter. They were all exceeding black and dirty; and made in very odd a figure, that I could not but stop and look upon them. Some that looked belted and through up the rear; I did cross out of the Stamp-office; from whence I rightly inferred, that they were Printer Devils, carrying from whence the returns of odd news-papers, after the Stamp had been cut off. I thought something unusual would ensue; nor was I deceived in my expectation by the following Dialogue, which I commenced in saying, as soon as I returned to my lodgings. The Dialogue I have distinguished by names, with as great propriety as I could, either from the appearance the persons themselves made, or from the information of others. I have kept as near as possible to the thoughts and expressions of these black gnomes; so that which I was not a little surprised at first. But when I considered, that many persons in higher life, without ever reading an Act, suppose, solely by conversation, a faculty of talking, with great fluency, upon every of subjects, that they neither understand them, nor the language in which they talk; I did not think it did strange, that these gnomes, that moving in a lower sphere, not having constant opportunities of reading the weekly works of our political writers, or at least of hearing them read, should obtain, in some degree, their way of speaking and thinking. Thus when they generally cry on the streets, might get into the inside of their heads; from whence it proceeds in the following manner.

First-messenger. Devils, Devils, Devils, and Devils. Let us fly here, and lay down our business for a while we upon the ground, since the bell is fast off, and we are violently deflected from our property. Our property, I say, is that which we are fast upon, position, as it is for a part, since we have applied us to that time, we may justly be said to have had the true position of every body. And since that time to this, thousands of petitions have given us their express content by a laughter of applause. Now when this to be wondered at, since the left to which we put this place, was of the same nature with that to which it is directed below, and was a greater improvement of it. It had been for a long while a monument of suitable history, politics, and poetry; and therefore a very proper place for us to sit upon the shoulders of the weighted all those, which lay in heavy upon them. And what company could be more suitable to such of the present writers, than their works we find, than that of Parn, Ours, and Ours. And since therefore we did to this place has been confirmed to us by long position; and our own past, that we have placed in a way are we thus much surprised? I should be for breaking their backs, and demolishing these flowers of industry, were not the law's search some service in the Old Lady, then here in Lincoln's-inn. But they are always on the strongest side, and therefore make it the legal. Wealth and poverty, I have heard figure themselves to say, this two various bodies, heavy on the shoulders of the law, though thick and thin, through fat and good ways and wealth, just as they please, while the weak man in his black livery, sitting in the box, as it were, for some's sake, unable to stop their career, encourages them in it, with their reins which ought to restrain them. Hence we sometimes find the dead in a coach, who ought to ride only in a cart, which is frequently suffered to be other ways, who are driven up Lincoln's-inn by some legal coachman.

On which account, I think, it will be better for us to acquire the under the present impudent position, and particularly to lay our burdens down on the ground, than to forcibly re-entrance upon our right, expose ourselves to be taken, and perhaps, rushed up by some other person, who will not let I have said, I shall look upon this as a token of your continuance in the same opinion with myself.

JOHN TOWN. I am heartily glad you are all of my mind; and when you, had you been all another, as I have as ever you had kept your own. I should have been a very much more of the other, and showed you a fair pair of heels. I think my reader, Mr. Bayne, who was the first great instance of truly Yearning, has taken the widest course, the position is a Sketch which has given more and more dangerous to provide which, he has for a long while tried in style, and in become a much more famous, I suppose than Mr. Bayne himself. It is an small contribution to their health, but unfortunate position, what they think up at the Chancery as Tithes, where all are fully informed, that a false account of their lives and possessions, were as directed by themselves, should be printed in a Weekly Journal. It is therefore of great advantage to the writer in general, as well as to my reader in particular, to publish the Long Journal of their Department; which are much more instructive to the public, than copies of full wills and testaments, which are always added to the Chancery and Masters, only to fill the volumes. Those provisions of Testaments since he fully called for, as to the law, but most properly English; and I have heard, that several eminent writers have declared, that they contain more good divinity, in better language, than any of those delivered at the Chancery and Chancery. — But, notwithstanding all this, I am heartily glad, that you should have heard me off, for I think it best of the Long Journal of you, my intention, to ever lay upon my back, I should hardly have under it, as the most fat and heavy burden I ever carried in my life. — But I beg your pardon, Mr. Bayne, for this long interruption; for you begin to have something of great importance in your countenance.

First-messenger. Bayne. — That my Devilish, who have been Devil in the Long Journal, London Long Journal, and Devilish Journal, ever since their first issue; and my Devilish, which is much older than yours, might come to give you some sort of right to your Devilish; yet I acknowledge the remarkable title you have considered upon me, by a five-and-thirty millions, to a more instance of your power, that understood, yet now altogether unexpected. For it seems a natural consequence of the report you have already given me, in only taking out several papers
