The Invented Eye Masterpieces Of Photography 1839 1914:

The Invented Eye Edward Lucie-Smith, 1975 invented eye (the); masterpieces of photography, 1839-1914 E.
LUCIE-SMITH, 1975 The Invented Eye Edward Lucie-Smith, 1975 In The invented eye Edward Lucie Smith surveys from an art critic's point of view the pioneer period of photography Against the cultural and artistic background of the 19th century world he discusses the broad implications of early photography and many of its most important practitioners Taking as it does an art critical point of view The invented eye is not a technical book though there is a brief section explaining the major techniques of early photography Its emphasis is on understanding the photographs as visual images More than 150 photographs provide a magnificent complement to the lucid and perceptive text and make The invented eye a journey through time to the beginnings of a new way of seeing the world Photography, Vision, and the Production of Modern Bodies Suren Lalvani, 1996-01-01 Lalvani argues that modernity represents the powerful privileging of vision and the introduction of a paradigm of seeing that is historically distinctive Taking the introduction of photography in the nineteenth century as a crucial development in the expansion of modern vision he draws on the writings of Alan Sekula John Tagg Jonathan Crary Norman Bryson and Martin Jay to examine in a comprehensive manner how photography functioned to organize a set of relations between knowledge power and the body However in taking a broad cultural studies approach Lalvani situates the practices of photography within the larger visual order of the nineteenth century He demonstrates how the new lines of visibility formed not only by photography but by new urban spaces and new modes of transportation resulted in a particular organizing of the social order of subjectivity and social relations Framing the Victorians Jennifer Green-Lewis, 1996 A wide ranging exploration of the complex and often conflicting discourse on photography in the nineteenth century Framing the Victorians traces various descriptions of photography as art science magic testimony proof document record illusion and diagnosis Victorian photography argues Jennifer Green Lewis inspired such universal fascination that even two so self consciously opposed schools as positivist realism and metaphysical romance claimed it as their own Photography thus became at once the symbol of the inadequacy of nineteenth century empiricism and the proof of its totalizing vision Green Lewis juxtaposes textual descriptions with pictorial representations of a diverse array of cultural activities from war and law enforcement to novel writing and psychiatry She compares for example the exhibition of Roger Fenton's Crimean War photographs 1855 with W H Russell's written accounts of the war published in the Times of London 1884 and 1886 Nineteenth century photography she maintains must be reread in the context of Victorian written texts from and against which it developed Green Lewis also draws on works by Thomas Hardy Nathaniel Hawthorne and Henry James as well as published writing by Victorian photographers in support of her view that photography provides an invaluable model for understanding the act of writing itself We cannot talk about realism in the nineteenth century without talking about visuality claims Green Lewis and Framing the Victorians explores the connections The Photographic Journal, 1975
