The Investigation A Play:

The Investigation Peter Weiss, 1966 A shattering drama about the holocaust by the author of Marat Sade The stark stage contains nothing more than rows of wooden chairs and small tables for the judge defense attorney and prosecuting attorney The top rows are filled by those accused in the Frankfurt trial of the atrocities of Auschwitz The house lights are kept on which together with seating the attorneys and the judge in the audience contributes to the sense of spectator participation This play is based on the actual testimony and its impact is devastating Bare stage w props

The Investigation Peter Weiss, 1967 Constructs a dramatic work around proceedings at a German court that tried twenty one Auschwitz officials in 1964 and 1965

Marat/Sade ; The Investigation ; and The Shadow of the Body of the Coachman Peter Weiss, 1998-01-01 Peter Weiss 1916 1982 was virtually unknown in the mid 1960s when Peter Brook made Marat Sade into a film The weaving of time space plot real and imagined characters sexual liberation and surrealist imagery made Marat Sade a sensation Little did audiences realize that this counterculture classic was written by a German Jew At that time Weiss was also at work on a play about Auschwitz The Investigation These two dramas are in this volume along with The Shadow of the Body of the Coachman All are cogently introduced and edited by Robert Cohen

Young Children's Dyadic Pretend Play Ursula Verena Schwartz, 1991 Pretend play in early childhood arises in the context of social interaction and as such constitutes a form of discourse indigenous to the child's world The present study is a first detailed investigation of thematic ideational structure in young children's dyadic pretend play with special emphasis on major generative strategies involved in the realization of coherent play action sequences Play was conceptualized as a story in a dramatic mode where two actors jointly generate or attempt to generate ideationally coherent action sequences or play plots resulting in a complex ever evolving thematic structure at a number of levels of analysis Methodological problems of analysis resulted in the creation of an analytic procedure Master Text that simultaneously addresses structural and processual features of play and is able to deal with lengthy play segments The results characterize playing as a form of discourse which proceeds according to patterned regularities at the level of Thematic Core Structures and associated schemata which underly the plot surface The realization of such structurizations comes about during the play process in a complex interplay with features of the setting and requires establishing and modifying a shared knowledge base These findings are discussed in light of their significance for childhood socialization
