Anthropological approaches to the sciences have developed as part of a broader tradition concerned about the place of the sciences in today's world and in some basic sense concerned with questions about the legitimacy of the sciences In the years since the second World War we have seen the emergence of a number of different attempts both to analyze and to cope with the successes of the sciences their broad penetration into social life and the sense of problem and crisis that they have projected Among the of movements concerned about the earlier responses were the development social responsibility of scientists and technological practitioners There is little doubt that this was a direct outgrowth of the role of science in the war epitomized by the successful construction and catastrophic use of the atomic bomb The recognition of the deep social utility of science and especially its role as an instrument of war fostered curiosity about the earlier development of scientific disciplines and institutional forms The history of science as an explicit discipline with full time practitioners can be seen as an attempt to locate science in temporal space first in its intellectual form and secondly in its institutional or social form The sociology of science while certainly having roots in the pre war work of Robert K The Fire Worm Ian Watson,2011-09-29 Psychiatrist John Cunningham is secretly also Jack Cannon author of popular horror novels Under hypnotic regression John's patient Tony reveals a bizarre and horrifying tale of a past life lived on Tyneside in the 1950s involving two schoolboys and a weird creature with paranormal powers lurking in caves beneath Tynemouth Castle As John regresses Tony through earlier lives as far back as the 14th century it begins to seem that the local legend captured in folksong of a malevolent Lambton Worm may have had a basis in fact that it was in fact the salamander of alchemical belief summoned by an alchemist known as Raymond Lully and possibly still locked below Tynemouth Castle And while John Cunningham is exploring Tony's multiple personalities he begins to experience personality problems of his own as Jack Cannon begins to assert his own individuality
