Be Creative Angela McRobbie, 2018-03-15 In this exciting new book Angela McRobbie charts the euphoric moment of the new creative economy as it rose to prominence in the UK during the Blair years and considers it from the perspective of contemporary experience of economic austerity and uncertainty about work and employment McRobbie makes some bold arguments about the staging of creative economy as a mode of labour reform she proposes that the dispositif of creativity is a fine tuned instrument for acclimatising the expanded youthful urban middle classes to a future of work without the raft of entitlements and security which previous generations had struggled to win through the post war period of social democratic government Adopting a cultural studies perspective McRobbie re considers resistance as line of flight and shows what is at stake in the new politics of culture and creativity She incisively analyses project working as the embodiment of the future of work and poses the question as to how people who come together on this basis can envisage developing stronger and more protective organisations and associations Scattered throughout the book are excerpts from interviews with artists stylists fashion designers policy makers and social entrepreneurs

Meditation in Judaism, Christianity and Islam Halvor Eifring, 2013-10-24 Meditative practices have flourished in widely different parts of Eurasia yet historical research on such practices is limited Research to date has focused on contexts rather than actual practices and within individual traditions For the first time in one volume the meditative practices of the three traditions of Judaism Christianity and Islam are examined They are viewed in a global perspective considering both generic and historical connections to practices in other traditions particularly in India and East Asia Their cultural and historical peculiarities are examined comparing them both to each other and to Asian forms of meditation The book builds on a notion of meditation as self administered techniques for inner transformation a definition which focuses on transformative practice rather than notions of meditative states and mystical experiences It proposes ways of studying meditative practice historically and concludes with an essay on the modern scientific interest in meditation
