The Jail John Irwin, 1985-09-16 Combining extensive interviews with his own experience as an inmate John Irwin constructs a powerful and graphic description of the big city jail Unlike prisons which incarcerate convicted felons jails primarily confine arrested persons not yet charged or convicted of any serious crime Irwin argues that jail disorients and degrades and instead of controlling the disreputable actually increases their number of helping to indoctrinate new recruits to the rabble class In a forceful conclusion Irwin addresses the issue of jail reform and the matter of social control demanded by society

From the Courtroom to the Boardroom Deena Varner, 2024-05-14 The era of mass incarceration has been associated with the idea of law and order referring to the carceral regime in which politicians exploited public anxieties over crime and funneled resources into policing and prisons As important as this system has been and remains to be there has been a shift in recent years shaped by neoliberalism the political economic and sociocultural program that has supplanted liberal democratic legal frameworks subordinating them to operations of the market and mandating that private entities intervene in the creation interpretation and enforcement of law While courts and legislatures play a significant role in shaping legal personhood in the neoliberal United States private profit driven institutions are increasingly responsible for determining the post sentence consequences that people with criminal convictions face The result has been a move from the courtroom to the boardroom from a law and order society to a policy and order society From the Courtroom to the Boardroom is an interdisciplinary cultural studies project that examines the role of the criminal justice system in implementing neoliberal restructuring in the United States including the partial transfer of quasi judicial authority to employers landlords lenders social media companies and other businesses In this important study Deena Varner examines the way the consumer background report industry has privatized the surveillance and punishment of individuals conflating crime with bad credit and eviction history She positions Airbnb's 2018 policy of banning people convicted of crimes as an example of the way corporate entities are increasingly vested with the authority to determine things like the seriousness or severity of crimes Varner also tackles the phenomenon of cancel culture arguing that this is best understood not as a feature of the culture wars but rather as a partial return to what Foucault described as the punitive model of infamy in which the responsibility for punishing has been transferred from the state to individuals
