The Jewelled Caftan:

The Jewelled Caftan Margaret Pargeter, 1978 Desert Passions Hsu-Ming Teo, 2012-11-15 The Sheikh E M Hull's best selling novel that became a wildly popular film starring Rudolph Valentino kindled sheik fever across the Western world in the 1920s. A craze for all things romantically Oriental swept through fashion, film, and literature, spawning imitations and parodies without number. While that fervor has largely subsided, tales of passion between Western women and Arab men continue to enthrall readers of today's mass market romance novels. In this groundbreaking cultural history, Hsu-Ming Teo traces the literary lineage of these desert romances and historical bodice rippers from the twelfth to the twenty-first century and explores the gendered cultural and political purposes that they have served at various historical moments. Drawing on high literature, erotica, and popular romance fiction and films, Teo examines the changing meanings of Orientalist tropes such as crusades and conversion, abduction by Barbary pirates, sexual slavery, the fear of renegades, the Oriental despot and his harem, the figure of the powerful Western concubine, and fantasies of escape from the harem. She analyzes the impact of imperialism, decolonization, sexual liberation, feminism, and American involvement in the Middle East on women's Orientalist fiction. Teo suggests that the rise of female-authored romance novels dramatically transformed the nature of Orientalism because it feminized the discourse, made white women central as producers, consumers, and imagined actors, and revised, reversed, or collapsed the binaries inherent in traditional analyses of Orientalism. Tchay and Chianti Welbore St. Clair Baddeley, 1887 Representing Difference in the Medieval and Modern Orientalist Romance Amy Burge, 2017-02-14 This book, the first full-length cross-period comparison of medieval and modern literature, offers cutting-edge research into the textual and cultural legacy of the Middle Ages, a significant and growing area of scholarship. At the juncture of literary, cultural, and gender studies, and capitalizing on a renewed interest in popular Western representations of the Islamic East, this book proffers innovative case studies on representations of cross-religious and cross-cultural romantic relationships in a selection of late medieval and twenty-first-century Orientalist popular romances. Comparing the tropes, characterization, and settings of these literary phenomena and focusing on gender, religion, and ethnicity, the study exposes the historical roots of current romance representations of the East, advancing research in Orientalism, neo-medievalism, and medieval cultural studies. Fundamentally, Representing Difference invites a closer look at medieval and modern popular attitudes towards the East as represented in romance and the kinds of solutions proposed for its apparent problems. Conflicted Karen Nappa, 2021-01-28 Can they set aside their mutual dislike to give her what she needs?
