Melack,2020-12-01 The Sierra Nevada California s iconic mountain range harbors thousands of remote high elevations lakes from which water flows to sustain agriculture and cities As climate and air quality in the region change so do the watershed processes upon which these lakes depend In order to understand the future of California s ecology and natural resources we need an integrated account of the environmental processes that underlie these aquatic systems Synthesizing over three decades of research on the lakes and watersheds of the Sierra Nevada this book develops an integrated account of the hydrological and biogeochemical systems that sustain them With a focus on Emerald Lake in Sequoia National Park the book marshals long term limnological and ecological data to provide a detailed and synthetic account while also highlighting the vulnerability of Sierra lakes to changes in climate and atmospheric deposition In so doing it lays the scientific foundations for predicting and understanding how the lakes and watersheds will respond The United States Detailed National Report on Systematic Observations for Climate ,2001 Idaho Basin Outlook Report ,2006 Chemistry of Nature, designed as a popular exposition of the chemical constitution and relations of natural objects, and as a general introduction to the study of chemical science Hugo Reid,1837 Chemistry of Nature Hugo Reid,1837 changes in Earth's interior, land surface, biosphere, atmosphere, and oceans affect all aspects of life. Understanding these changes requires a range of observations acquired from land, sea, air, and space-based platforms. To assist NASA, NOAA, and USGS in developing these tools, the NRC was asked to carry out a decadal strategy survey of Earth science and applications from space that would develop the key scientific questions on which to focus Earth and environmental observations in the period 2005-2015 and beyond and present a prioritized list of space programs, missions, and supporting activities to address these questions. This report presents a vision for the Earth science program, an analysis of the existing Earth Observing System, and recommendations to help restore its capabilities, an assessment of and recommendations for new observations and missions for the next decade, an examination of and recommendations for effective application of those observations, and an analysis of how best to sustain that observation and applications system.

Integrated Technologies for Environmental Monitoring and Information Production Nilgun B. Harmancioglu, S.D. Ozkul, O. Fistikoglu, Paul Geerders, 2003-10-31. This book presents the proceedings and the outcomes of the NATO Advanced Research Workshop ARW on Integrated Technologies for Environmental Monitoring and Information Production which was held in Marmaris, Turkey, between September 10-14, 2001. With the contribution of 45 experts from 20 different countries, the ARW has provided the opportunity to resolve the basic conflicts that tend to arise between different disciplines associated with environmental data management and to promote understanding between experts on an international and multidisciplinary basis. The prevailing universal problem in environmental data management (EDM) systems is the significant incoherence between data collection procedures and the retrieval of information required by the users. This indicates the presence of problems still encountered in the realization of: 1) delineation of objectives, constraints, institutional aspects of EDM; 2) design of data collection networks; 3) statistical sampling; 4) physical sampling and presentation of data; 5) data processing and environmental databases; 6) reliability of data; 7) data analysis and transfer of data into information; and 8) data accessibility and data exchange at local, regional, and global scales. Further problems stem from the lack of coherence between different disciplines involved in EDM, lack of coordination between responsible agencies on a country basis, and lack of coordination on an international level regarding the basic problems and relevant solutions that should be sought.
