Social Class Race And Psychological Development:

Social Class, Race, and Psychological Development Martin Deutsch, 1979-08 Social Class, Race, and Psychological Development Martin Deutsch, Irwin Katz, 1968 Social class, race, and psychological development, ed Martin Deutsch, Nutrition, Development, and Social Behavior David Johnson Kallen, 1973 Psychological Testing of American Minorities Ronald J. Samuda, 1998-01-21

The Second Edition of this classic work has been thoroughly updated and revised with an additional chapter providing a powerful rebuttal to The Bell Curve Ronald J Samuda presents a comprehensive analysis of the perspectives pitfalls fallacies issues consequences and trends in the use of standardized norm referenced tests with American minorities He demonstrates that testing continues to be the primary method for injecting pseudoscientific arguments which bolster discrimination prejudice and social injustice Psychology and Race Peter Watson, Since the problems of race relations are worldwide the international origins and perspectives of this excellent and timely book are especially advantageous More research has been done in the United States than elsewhere on the psychology of race relations so it is appropriate that a plurality of the chapters of this book are by American authors a stellar group that includes leading contributors to our contemporary knowledge of the topic Contributors from the English speaking Commonwealth countries are next in number followed by authors from the United Kingdom where race related issues have only recently become a salient concern of politics and social ethics The editor has assigned topics to his carefully chosen author experts not by country or region but by matching the expertise of each author against a need for coherent analysis of the important aspects of psychology and race Psychology and Race is divided into two major parts The first half of the book looks at the interracial situation itself The first section concentrates on the majority or dominant group and describes the development and measurement of racial awareness and prejudice and techniques for reducing prejudice the second section focuses on the reactions of subordinate or minority groups and the third deals with specific aspects of interpersonal interaction attitudes behavior and performance when the people concerned are of different races The book also looks at those areas of life where race is relevant and where psychology can help in an understanding of the situation The scope of this volume the distinction of its authors and the hardheaded sense of reality it brings to the discussion of these extremely complex issues will make it an invaluable resource not only for teachers and students but also for everyone concerned in any way with this most pressing issue of our times Peter Watson was deputy editor of The New Society and spent a total of four years with The London Sunday Times as part of their Insight Team He has written several books and since 1998 has been Research Associate at the Illicit Antiquities Research Centre located at the McDonald Institute for Archaeological Research at the University of Cambridge United Kingdom Environment, Intelligence, and Scholastic Achievement ,1972 Nutrition, Development and Social Behavior United States. National Institute of Neurological Diseases and Stroke, 1973 Educational Differences (RLE Edu L) Arthur Jensen, 2012-05-16 Among particular issues discussed in this book are the problems of the cultural disadvantaged the problems of devising psychological tests which are not biased towards any particular culture the problems of minority groups of children in education and the relationship between heritability and teachability

Eliminating Racism Phyllis A. Katz, Dalmis A. Taylor, 2013-06-29 The chapters presented here provide the reader with an awareness of the divergent views of what constitutes racism and frameworks for reducing it This book points out that the dialogue and research on this subject since the mid 1970s have yielded increased controversy over the theories foundation and continued existence of racism Ironically what we viewed in the 1954 Brown decision and the Civil Rights Act of 1964 as the beginning of the end of racism turned out to be the beginning of confusion over the course of action to ensure societal acceptance of political mandates Hence the title of this book captures the essence of the emotional core of any forum for examining racism past and present One of the most controversial forums has been that of education beginning with the U S Supreme Court's 1954 ruling in Brown v Board of Education Behind every event that has spawned controversy is a profile in courage It was not a simple decision for the players in the scenario of the Brown v Board of Education case to step forward and present themselves as evidence of discrimination Black parents supported by black organizations viewed this legal action as a chance for equal opportunity Yet the 1950s were a time when black communities were pained by the thought that bigotry and institutional racism would forever stand in the way of their achieving equality

Children as Teachers Vernon L. Allen, 2013-10-22 Children as Teachers Theory and Research on Tutoring covers topics on the use of children to tutor other children in school helping relationships in general and cross age interaction by children The book discusses the basic theoretical and empirical foundations for practical programs original empirical research relevant to cross age interaction and the impact of tutoring on both the tutor and the tutee and a wide range of tutoring programs that operate in the schools The text also reviews existing research on tutoring by children as well as research and experience on the advantages and disadvantages of several alternative decisions when establishing a tutoring program in the school Some of the papers in the book report interesting scientific information on topics having obvious practical implications social class and ethnic differences in tutoring by young children teaching by siblings nonverbal skills and consequences of tutoring for the tutor and the use of a variety of nonprofessionals as helpers Educators social scientists psychologists and policy makers will find the book invaluable

Individuals as Producers of Their Development Richard M Lerner, Nancy A. Busch-Rossnagel, 2013-09-03 Individuals as Producers of Their Development A Life Span Perspective provides an assessment of the usefulness of viewing the individual as an active contributor to his or her development It extends the breadth of organism environment reciprocities beyond those involved with the child and family On the one hand this extension involves a consideration of the role of evolutionary biological processes on the other it pertains to the broader ecology of human development the social network lying outside the family and the physical environmental contexts of development Person context reciprocities linked to variables that may play their greatest role in the extrafamilial context are also considered Variables such as physical attractiveness race and physical handicap are examples of those discussed in this regard Finally because of the greater scope of the analysis a potentially greater data base is examined in a search for documentation of the presence and role of dynamic person context interactions

Allen,2001 The Concept of Self examines the historical basis for the widely misunderstood ideas of how African Americans think of themselves individually and how they relate to being part of a group that has been subjected to challenges of their very humanity Institutional racism has had a major impact on the development of African American self esteem and group identity Through the years African Americans have developed strong tenacious concepts of self partially based on African cultural and philosophical retentions and as a reaction to historical injustices The Concept of Self examines the historical basis for the widely misunderstood ideas of how African Americans think of themselves individually and how they relate to being part of a group that has been subjected to challenges of their very humanity Richard Allen examines past scholarship on African American identity to explore a wide range of issues leading to the formation of an individual and collective sense of self Allen traces the significance of social forces that have impinged on the lives of African Americans and points to the uniqueness of their position in American society. He then focuses on the results from the National Survey of Black Americans, a national survey of African Americans on a wide range of political, social, and psychological issues, to develop a model of African self. Allen explores the idea of double consciousness as put forth by W. E. B. DuBois against the more recent debates of Afrocentricity or an African-centered consciousness. He proposes a set of interrelated hypotheses regarding how African Americans might use an African worldview for the upliftment of Africans in the Diaspora. The Concept of Self will interest students and scholars of African American studies, sociology, and population studies.
