excavated from the 1890s to the 1980s to gain a new understanding of the Monacans and to gauge their importance in the realm of the late prehistoric period in the Eastern Woodlands Based on osteological examinations of dozens of complete skeletons and thousands of isolated bones and bone fragments this work constructs information on Monacan demography diet health and mortuary ritual in the 10th through the 15th centuries The results show an overall pattern of stability and local autonomy among the Late Woodland village societies of interior Virginia in which a mixture of maize farming and the collection of wild food resources were successful for more than 600 years This book uniting biological and cultural aspects of the data for a holistic understanding of everyday life in the period will be of interest to ethnohistorians osteologists bioarchaeologists and anyone studying Late Woodland Mississippian and contact periods as well as middle range societies in the Eastern Woodlands
