The Palgrave Handbook of Sound Design and Music in Screen Media Liz Greene, Danijela Kulezic-Wilson, 2016-12-14 This book bridges the existing gap between film sound and film music studies by bringing together scholars from both disciplines who challenge the constraints of their subject areas by thinking about integrated approaches to the soundtrack. As the boundaries between scoring and sound design in contemporary cinema have become increasingly blurred, both film music and film sound studies have responded by expanding their range of topics and the scope of their analysis beyond those traditionally addressed. The running theme of the book is the disintegration of boundaries, which permeates discussions about industry, labour, technology, aesthetics, and audiovisual spectatorship. The collaborative nature of screen media is addressed not only in scholarly chapters but also through interviews with key practitioners that include sound recordists, sound designers, composers, orchestrators, and music supervisors who honed their skills on films, TV programmes, video games, commercials, and music videos.

Governing Sound Jocelyne Guilbault, 2007-09-15. Written in two parts, part 1 explores the development of Calypso from its emergence in the pre colonial period to the post colonial period. In part 2 the focus is on the new Carnival musical practices of soca, rapso, chutney soca and ragga soca and the ways in which they contributed to the redefinition of Trinidadian cultural politics in the neoliberal era. The new rationalities, contingencies, desires and musical experiments that animated the new musics enabled them to gradually displace calypso from its centrality as national expression is examined.
