Princeps Maynard And Its Summer Home In 1598 forty convicts were left on the island by the Marquis de la Roche who intended to transfer them to the mainland as soon as he had selected a site for a new colony A storm however presently arose that drove him eastward and he finally returned to France where he is said to have been imprisoned The convicts were not rescued for five or six years when all save a dozen had perished the survivors subsisting on cattle seals and berries and clothing themselves with skins and furs During the first half of the seventeenth century the island was visited by English and French fishermen and hunters in pursuit Of the seals walruses and foxes that then abounded and by others who hunted the cattle for their hides In 1633 John Rose of Boston who was wrecked upon the island reported having seen more than eight hundred head of wild cattle and a great many foxes many of which were black After he had effected his escape in a boat built from the wreckage of his vessel he returned again with seventeen Acadians who so slaughtered the cattle that few remained when some years later a company arrived from Boston having the same end in view Apparently the cattle foxes and walruses were exterminated at about this time for we find little or no reference to them during the next hundred years About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works The Sequence of Plumages and Moults of the Passerine Birds of New York Jonathan Dwight,1900
