Growing Up : A Story of the Girlhood of Judith Mackenzie Jennie M. Drinkwater, Growing Up A Story of the Girlhood of Judith Mackenzie I was not sure whether it were to write a book or to teach or to go as a foreign missionary I think I hoped it would be the foreign missionary because that was the most self sacrificing The book was all one great joy The teaching was absorbing but I must go away to study I was afraid to go away I did not like to go away from Bensalem I would miss my mother away from Bensalem and you and all the parsonage and the whole village But I thought I was called as called as Roger was to preach or any woman saint or heroine who had done a great thing You cannot think what it was to me It made me old I wanted God to speak out of Heaven and tell me what to do It began to lose its selfishness after that The first thing that began to shake my confidence was something Mrs Lane said that afternoon she talked to Jean and me about what women were doing and could do She did not make woman s work attractive she took the heart out of me I did not know why she should do that I knew better all the time I knew what women had done and were doing I knew she was doing a noble work literary work work in prisons temperance work the instances she gave me seemed trivial as if she were laughing at me But something opened my eyes I felt that I might be disobedient to my heavenly vision that I was looking up into the heavens for my call and the voice might be all the time in my ear That was the night I came back here and found you so cozy and satisfied under your own roof tree with the voice in your ear and the work in your hand The world went away from me I stayed I am glad I stayed My only trouble is and it is a real trouble that God did not care for my purpose or my prayers that he has let them go as if they never entered into his mind I thought they were in his heart as well as mine

Growing Up Muslim Andrew C. Garrod, Robert Kilkenny, 2014-04-15 While 9 11 and its aftermath created a traumatic turning point for most of the writers in this book it is telling that none of their essays begin with that moment These young people were living probing and shifting their Muslim identities long before 9 11 I ve heard it said that the second generation never asks the first about its story but nearly all the essays in this book include long intimate portrayals of Muslim family life often going back generations These young Muslims are constantly negotiating the differences between families for whom faith and culture were matters of honor and North America s youth culture with its emphasis on questioning exploring and inventing one s own destiny from the Introduction by Eboo Patel In Growing Up Muslim Andrew Garrod and Robert Kilkenny present fourteen personal essays by college students of the Muslim faith who are themselves immigrants or are the children of immigrants to the United States In their essays the students grapple with matters of ethnicity religious prejudice and misunderstanding and what is termed Islamophobia The fact of 9 11 and subsequent surveillance and suspicion of Islamic Americans particularly those hailing from the Middle East and the

Asian Subcontinent have had a profound effect on these students their families and their communities of origin
