Japan: A European Perspective Thomas Andersson,1993-09-12 Contemporary Capitalism J. Rogers

Hollingsworth,Robert Boyer,1997 This book argues that there is no single best institutional arrangement for organizing modern societies Therefore the market should not be considered the ideal and universal arrangement for coordinating economic activity Instead the editors argue the economic institutions of capitalism exhibit a large variety of objectives and tools that complement each other and can not work in isolation The various chapters of the book ask what logics and functions institutions follow and why they emerge mature and persist in the forms they do A Theory of Employment

Systems David Marsden,1999 A Theory of Employment Systems considers why there are such great international differences in the way employment relations are organized within the firm Taking account of the growing evidence that international diversity is not being wiped out by globalization it sets out from the theory of the firm first developed by Coase and Simon and explains why firms and workers should use the employment relationship as the basis for their economic cooperation The originality of the employment relationship lies in its flexibility It gives managers the authority to organize work but it also establishes limits on employees obligations The author argues that these limits are provided by four basic types of employment rule Which one predominates in a given environment is the source of international diversity in employment relations Drawing upon evidence from the US Japan France Germany and Britain the theory is extended to show why such diversity extends deep into key areas of human resource management such as performance management incentive pay and skill development It also explains why the open ended employment relationship continues to dominate work despite the growth of market mediated work relations Territoriality in the Globalizing Society J.v. Hagen,Stefan

Immerfall,2012-12-06 Globalization is one of the buzz words in the 1990s It points to a world in which geographic location becomes increasingly irrelevant a vision that has aroused both hopes and fears Surprisingly globalization is accompanied by increasing regionalization This volume is a timely contribution to the debate on globalization and regionalism Coming from several disciplines its contributors explore the consequences of a world with no geographical barriers Refuting simple notions of globalization they argue that location and space will remain important dimensions of economic and social development In view of this the book develops a more balanced view of the tension between globalization and regionalism

Harvard Business School Core Collection Baker Library,1999 Human Machine Symbiosis Karamjit S.

Gill,2012-12-06 There is now a serious discussion taking place about the moment at which human beings will be surpassed and replaced by the machine On the one hand we are designing machines which embed more and more human intelligence but at the same time we are in danger of becoming more and more like machines In these circumstances we all need to consider What can we do What should we do What are the alternatives of doing it This book is about the human centred alternative of designing systems and technologies This alternative is rooted in the European tradition of human centredness which emphasises the symbiosis of human capabilities and machine capacity The human centred tradition celebrates the diversity of human skill and ingenuity and provides an alternative to the mechanistic paradigm of one best way the sameness of science and the dream of the exact language This alternative vision has its origin in the founding European human centred movements of the 1970s These include the British movement of Socially Useful Technology the Scandinavian movement of Democratic Participation and the German movement of Humanisation of Work and Technology The present volume brings together various strands of human centred systems philosophy which span the conceptual richness and cultural diversity of the human centred movements The core ideas of human centredness include human machine symbiosis the tacit dimension of knowledge the system as a tool rather than a machine dialogue participation social shaping and usability
