Skin Carcinogenesis In Man And In Experimental Models:

Skin Carcinogenesis in Man and in Experimental Models Erich Hecker, E.G. Jung, F. Marks, W. Tilgen, 2012-12-06 The detection of cancer risk factors and their possible avoidance would most effectively contribute to the fight against cancer. Research in these areas depends to a substantial degree on in vivo experimental animal models and on epidemiologic studies including data from cancer registries. When the Deutsches Krebsforschungszentrum was founded in 1964 its division Mechanisms of Tumorigenesis and a number of other divisions became engaged in research on chemical carcinogenesis of the skin mainly using the mouse skin as an experimental model. Their interest originated in part from investigations of the new and at that time controversial pathogenic principle of conditional carcinogens as represented by certain tumor promoters which are per se noncarcinogenic. During the past 25 years conditional carcinogens in terms of tumor promoters were established as a new nonclassical category of cancer risk factors besides the classical solitary carcinogens. In the course of this exciting period scientists of our center started cooperative programs with clinical dermatologists of the University of Heidelberg at the Clinics of Dermatology in Heidelberg and Mannheim to extend the scope of their investigations into clinical oncology and to contribute by experimental approaches to solving problems in clinical oncology. This led to a gradual shift from mere animal studies to the more direct analyses of human tumors and opened up for us a new phase of research.

International Symposium Skin Carcinogenesis in Man and in Experimental Models International Symposium Skin Carcinogenesis in Man and in Experimental Models (1991, Heidelberg), 1991. Biological Models in Radiopharmaceutical Development R.M. Lambrecht, 2012-12-06 Radiopharmaceuticals labeled with short lived radionuclides are utilized to unravel biochemical processes and to diagnosis and treat diseases of the living body. They are developed through extensive evaluation in biological models. The first attempt to compile information was a volume entitled ANIMAL MODELS IN RADIOTRACER DESIGN that was edited by William C Eckelman and myself in 1983. The volume had a focus on the animal models that investigators were using in order to design radiotracers that displayed in vivo selectivity as measured by biodistribution and pharmacokinetic studies. A concern in the early days of nuclear medicine was species differences. Often a series of labeled compounds were evaluated in several different animal models in order to gain confidence that the selected radiotracer would behave appropriately in humans. During the past 12 years there have been remarkable advances in molecular genetics, molecular biology, synthetic radiopharmaceutical chemistry, molecular modeling and visualization and emission tomography. Biological models can now be selected that are better defined in terms of molecular aspects of the disease process. The development of high resolution PET and SPET for clinical applications facilitates the development of new radiopharmaceuticals by the use of models to quantitatively evaluate drug effects and progression of disease and hence to arrive at better diagnosis and treatments for animals and humans. With these advances there is an effective use of biological models and the refinement of alternatives for the development of new radiopharmaceuticals. Skin Carcinogenesis in

Man and in Experimental Models ,1991 Transforming Growth Factor-Beta in Cancer Therapy, Volume II Sonia B. Jakowlew,2010-01-01 Transforming Growth Factor B in Cancer Therapy Volume II Cancer Treatment and Therapy The chapters in this volume confer an abundance of knowledge about the current state of our understanding of transforming growth factor B TGF B in cancer treatment and therapy Unlike several more traditional positive polypeptide growth factors that stimulate cellular proliferation the prototypical TGF B is now known to inhibit the growth of most normal cell types including those of epithelial and mesenchymal origin However there are examples of cell types that can be stimulated by TGF B under certain conditions TGF B also induces the accumulation of matrix molecules by stimulating their synthesis as well as inhibiting their degradation Moreover TGF B induces apoptosis of certain cell types thereby restricting their proliferation Overactivity of TGF has been linked to several diseases For instance the effect of TGF on matrix accumulation contributes to fibrotic conditions like glomerulonephritis lung fibrosis and liver cirrhosis 1 TGF has a very complicated role in cancer that is only beginning to be understood Cumulated Index Medicus ,1992 Current Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.),1993 First multi year cumulation covers six years 1965 70 Journal of the National Cancer Institute ,1994
