Portraits in Leadership Arthur Padilla, 2005-04-30 Leading complex organizations is never easy or simple In this book Padilla uses the university as the organizational vehicle through which to examine the phenomenon of leadership and followership in complex entities The unique characteristics of universities as organizations are discussed and the leadership experiences of six well known university presidents are analyzed within an original framework of leadership Just as John Kennedy's Profiles in Courage considered the notion of political courage within the institutional setting of Congress this book explores leadership within the context of the modern American university The roles of persuasion and communication are highlighted as the author weaves the principal patterns from each of the six case studies to the situational conditions that faced these extraordinary individuals Padilla offers valuable suggestions on how to improve selection of leaders and increase organizational effectiveness The author's plan follows three circles that overlap to form its basic framework 1 The university as a complex organization 2 Leadership its patterns theories and commonalities and 3 Case studies of exemplary leaders which highlight their early experiences and actions The overlap of the three circles defines the conclusions and synthesis Each leader's story covers four areas Childhood background formal schooling education senior leadership roles and major defining events successes and failures and forecasts for higher education and its leadership The book includes an assortment of public and private universities which provides a diversity of leaders who face significant differences in terms of control financing and oversight This diversity allows for more useful comparisons and contrasts The author explains the enormous role that persuasion rather than domination or power plays in successful leadership It is clear that persuasion is effective in many settings and not just in the university environment but it is particularly effective Rhetoric, Religion and the Civil Rights Movement, 1954-1965 Davis W. Houck, David E. Dixon, 2006 V 2 Building upon their critically acclaimed first volume Davis W. Houck and David E. Dixon's new Rhetoric, Religion and the Civil Rights Movement 1954-1965 is a recovery project of enormous proportions Houck and Dixon have again combed church archives government documents university libraries and private collections in pursuit of the civil rights movement's long buried eloquence Their new work presents fifty new speeches and sermons delivered by both famed leaders and little known civil rights activists on national stages and in quiet shacks The speeches carry novel insights into the ways in which individuals and communities utilized religious rhetoric to upset the racial status quo in divided America during the civil rights era Houck and Dixon's work illustrates again how a movement so prominent in historical scholarship still has much to teach us Publisher Assessing Affective

Characteristics in the Schools Lorin W. Anderson, Sid F. Bourke, 2013-05-13 The affective realm is a critical but often forgotten aspect of schooling. The development of character and the formation of appropriate learning environments rely to a large extent on understanding the affective nature of students. Even when the focus is on cognitive achievement, affect has a role to play. Teachers frequently mention a lack of motivation as a primary reason for students not achieving as well as they should or as well as their teachers would like. Despite the importance of affect, educators rarely make an effort to systematically collect and use information about students' affective characteristics to better understand students and to substantially improve the quality of education they receive. This book's purpose is to provide educators with the knowledge and skills they need to design and select instruments that can be used to gather information about students' affective characteristics. Once valid and reliable information has been gathered, it can be used to aid in understanding and to improve educational quality. The second edition features an updated list of affective characteristics: i.e., attitudes, values, interests, self-esteem, self-efficacy, locus of control. A dual emphasis on selecting and designing affective assessment instruments, an emphasis on multi-scale instruments: i.e., a single instrument with multiple affective scales, the use of a single small data set to illustrate and foster understanding of key concepts and procedures, a dual emphasis on data about individual students and groups of students, a dual focus on the instrumental value of affective data and the inherent value of affective data: i.e., affect is valuable in and of itself.
