A Slaving Voyage to Africa and Jamaica Bruce L. From Africa to Jamaica Audra A. Diptee, 2010-07-18 Rich with historical sketches of the life and experiences of slaves in Africa on slave ships and in Jamaica this volume illustrates the way enslaved Africans lived and helped to shape Jamaican society in the three decades before British abolition of the slave trade Audra Diptee's in depth investigations reveal unexpected insights into the demographics of those captured in Africa and legally transported on British slave ships For example there is a commonly held belief that slave traders had a preference for adult males In fact the practicalities of slave raiding meant that women children and large groups of the elderly were particularly vulnerable during raids and were more often captured and made available for sale in the Caribbean From Africa to Jamaica offers a new look at the Atlantic slave trade in its final years fleshing out the historical portrait of the African men women and children who were sold in Jamaica and were thus among the last of the enslaved to put their stamp on Jamaican society There is no comparable study that takes such a comprehensive approach looking at both the African and Jamaican sides of the trade system

Slavery, Childhood, and Abolition in Jamaica, 1788-1838 Colleen A. Vasconcellos, 2015 This project examines childhood and slavery in Jamaica from 1750 when abolitionist sentiment began to take hold in England to 1838 when slavery finally ended on the island By focusing specifically on the changing nature of slave childhood in Jamaica Vasconcellos examines how childhood and slavery influenced and changed each other throughout this period of study with the abolitionist movement standing as the main catalyst for change With each chapter focusing on a different aspect of the slave experience this monograph explores a childhood that was defined by planter opinion and manipulation but one that was increasingly affected by the complex processes of slavery abolition and eventually emancipation In doing so this study reveals a great deal about slave family and childhood from the inside shining new light on the experiences of slave children and slave families in Jamaica Provided by publisher

The Voyage of the Slave Ship Hare Sean M. Kelley, 2016-02-23 From 1754 to 1755 the slave ship Hare completed a journey from Newport Rhode Island to Sierra Leone and back to the United States a journey that transformed more than seventy Africans into commodities condemning some to death and the rest to a life of bondage in North America In this engaging narrative Sean Kelley painstakingly reconstructs this tumultuous voyage detailing everything from the identities of the captain and crew to their wild encounters with inclement weather slave traders and near mutiny But most importantly Kelley tracks the cohort of slaves aboard the Hare from their purchase in Africa to their sale in South

Carolina In tracing their complete journey Kelley provides rare insight into the communal lives of slaves and sheds new light on the African diaspora and its influence on the formation of African American culture In this immersive exploration Kelley connects the story of enslaved people in the United States to their origins in Africa as never before Told uniquely from the perspective of one particular voyage this book brings a slave ship s journey to life giving us one of the clearest views of the eighteenth century slave trade

Geographies of Race and Food Rachel Slocum, Arun Saldanha, 2016-04-15 While interest in the relations of power and identity in food explodes a hesitancy remains about calling these racial What difference does race make in the fields where food is grown the places it is sold and the manner in which it is eaten How do we understand farming and provisioning tasting and picking eating and being eaten hunger and gardening better by paying attention to race This collection argues there is an unacknowledged racial dimension to the production and consumption of food under globalization Building on case studies from across the world it advances the conceptualization of race by emphasizing embodiment circulation and materiality while adding to food advocacy an antiracist perspective it often lacks Within the three socio physical spatialities of food fields bodies and markets the collection reveals how race and food are intricately linked An international and multidisciplinary team of scholars complements each other to shed light on how human groups become entrenched in myriad hierarchies through food at scales from the dining room and market stall to the slave trade and empire Following foodways as they constitute racial formations in often surprising ways the chapters achieve a novel approach to the process of race as one that cannot be reduced to biology culture or capitalism

Jamaica in the Age of Revolution Trevor Burnard, 2020-04-03 A renowned historian offers novel perspectives on slavery and abolition in eighteenth century Jamaica Between the start of the Seven Years War in 1756 and the onset of the French Revolution in 1789 Jamaica was the richest and most important colony in British America White Jamaican slaveowners presided over a highly productive economic system a precursor to the modern factory in its management of labor its harvesting of resources and its scale of capital investment and output Planters supported by a dynamic merchant class in Kingston created a plantation system in which short term profit maximization was the main aim Their slave system worked because the planters who ran it were extremely powerful In Jamaica in the Age of Revolution Trevor Burnard analyzes the men and women who gained so much from the labor of enslaved people in Jamaica to expose the ways in which power was wielded in a period when the powerful were unconstrained by custom law or for the most part public approbation or disapproval Burnard finds that the unremitting war by the powerful against the poor and powerless evident in the day to day struggles slaves had with masters is a crucial context for grasping what enslaved people had to endure Examining such events as Tacky's Rebellion of 1760 the largest slave revolt in the Caribbean before the Haitian Revolution the Somerset decision of 1772 and the murder case of the Zong in 1783 in an Atlantic context Burnard reveals Jamaica to be a brutally effective and exploitative society that was highly adaptable to new economic and political circumstances even when placed under great stress as during the American Revolution Jamaica in the Age of Revolution demonstrates the importance of Jamaican planters and merchants to British imperial thinking at a time when slavery was unchallenged

If We Must Die Eric Robert Taylor, 2009-03-01 If We Must Die examines nearly five hundred shipboard rebellions that occurred over the course of the entire slave trade directly challenging the prevailing thesis that such resistance was infrequent or insignificant As Eric Robert Taylor shows though most revolts were crushed quickly others raged on for hours days or weeks and occasionally the Africans captured the vessel and returned themselves to freedom In recounting these rebellions Taylor suggests that certain factors like geographic location the involvement of women and children and the timing of a shipboard revolt determined the difference between success and failure Taylor also explores issues like aid from other ships punishment of slave rebels and treatment of sailors captured by the Africans If We Must Die expands the historical view of slave resistance revealing a continuum of rebellions that spanned the Atlantic as well as the centuries These uprisings Taylor argues ultimately helped limit and end the traffic in enslaved Africans and also served as crucial predecessors to the many revolts that occurred subsequently on plantations throughout the Americas
