Friedland, 2000-11-09 When the Supreme Court declared in 1954 that segregated public schools were unconstitutional the highest echelons of Protestant Catholic and Jewish religious organizations enthusiastically supported the ruling and black civil rights workers expected and actively sought the cooperation of their white religious cohorts Many white southern clergy however were outspoken in their defense of segregation and even those who supported integration were wary of risking their positions by urging parishioners to act on their avowed religious beliefs in a common humanity Those who did so found themselves abandoned by friends attacked by white supremacists and often driven from their communities Michael Friedland here offers a collective biography of several southern and nationally known white religious leaders who did step forward to join the major social protest movements of the mid-twentieth century lending their support first to the civil rights movement and later to protests over American involvement in Vietnam Profiling such activists as William Sloane Coffin Jr Daniel and Philip Berrigan Abraham Joshua Heschel Eugene Carson Blake Robert McAfee Brown and Will D. Campbell he reveals the passions and commitment behind their involvement in these protests and places their actions in the context of a burgeoning ecumenical movement George Lewis Tom Bethell, 2022-04-29 George Lewis one of the great traditional jazz clarinetists was born in 1900 at about the same time that jazz itself first appeared in New Orleans And by the time he died on the last day of 1968 New Orleans jazz had pretty much run its course too By then a jazz museum stood on Bourbon Street and a cultural center was under construction where Globe Hall had stood Lewis's life thus paralleled that of New Orleans jazz and in his later years he was the best known standard bearer of his city's music He came to the attention of the jazz world at the time of the so-called New Orleans Revival of the 1940s when veteran trumpeter Bunk Johnson was recorded by a number of jazz enthusiasts notably William Russell In this new biography Tom Bethell challenges a favorite myth of the history of jazz that the music became moribund in New Orleans after the legal red light district Storyville was closed in 1917 resulting in most jazz musicians going up the river In fact Bethell shows many more jazzmen stayed in the city than left and the musical style continued to develop and grow Thus the jazz fans who arrived in the city in the early 1940 s did not encounter a revival of an old style so much as an ongoing tradition with clarinetists like Lewis having been influenced by Benny Goodman and the Swing Era in addition to Lorenzo Tio and the Creole School After Bunk Johnson s death in 1949 at a time when many other social changes were beginning to be felt in the city the New Orleans jazz tradition began to go into a decline It became increasingly rigid and repetitive and was often designed to please what one observer called Dixieland fans yelling for their favorite members The book is based on lengthy research in New Orleans including interviews with George Lewis shortly before his death and unpublished material from the diaries kept by William Russell on his visits to New Orleans between 1942 and 1949 It also includes a statement by Lewis on jazz and the best way to play it and a complete Lewis discography This title is part of UC Press s Voices Revived program which commemorates University of California Press s mission to seek out and cultivate the brightest minds and give them voice reach and impact Drawing on a backlist dating to 1893 Voices Revived makes high quality peer reviewed scholarship accessible once again using print on demand technology This title was originally published in 1977
