explore a crucial sixty year period beginning with Charles Burney's ambitious General History of Music a four volume study of music around the globe and extending to the Great Exhibition of 1851 where musical instruments were assembled alongside the technologies of science and industry in the immense glass encased collections of the Crystal Palace. Importantly as the contributions show both the power of science and the power of music relied on performance spectacle and experiment. ,1941 The Physics of Music and Color Leon Gunther,2011-09-23 The Physics of Music and Color deals with two subjects music and color sound and light in the physically objective sense in a single volume The basic underlying physical principles of the two subjects overlap greatly both music and color are manifestations of wave phenomena and commonalities exist as to the production transmission and detection of sound and light This book aids readers in studying both subjects which involve nearly the entire gamut of the fundamental laws of classical as well as modern physics Where traditional introductory physics and courses are styled so that the basic principles are introduced first and are then applied wherever possible this book is based on a motivational approach it introduces a subject by demonstrating a set of related phenomena challenging readers by calling for a physical basis for what is observed The Physics of Music and Color is written at level suitable for college students without any scientific background requiring only simple algebra and a passing familiarity with trigonometry It contains numerous problems at the end of each chapter that help the reader to fully grasp the subject

Instruments and the Imagination Thomas L. Hankins,Robert J. Silverman,2014-07-14 Thomas Hankins and Robert Silverman investigate an array of instruments from the seventeenth through the nineteenth century that seem at first to be marginal to science magnetic clocks that were said to operate by the movements of sunflower seeds magic lanterns ocular harpsichords machines that played different colored lights in harmonious mixtures Aeolian harps a form of wind chime and other instruments of natural magic designed to produce wondrous effects By looking at these and the first recording instruments the stereoscope and speaking machines the authors show that scientific instruments first made their appearance as devices used to evoke wonder in the beholder as in works of magic and the theater The authors also demonstrate that these instruments even though they were often tricks were seen by their inventors as more than trickery In the view of Athanasius Kircher for instance the sunflower clock was not merely a hoax but an effort to demonstrate however fraudulently his truly held belief that the ability of a flower to follow the sun was due to the same cosmic magnetic influence as that which moved the planets and caused the rotation of the earth The marvels revealed in this work raise and answer questions about the connections between natural science and natural magic the meaning of demonstration the role of language and the senses in science and the connections among art music literature and natural science Originally published in 1995 The
