THE SONGS OF THE RUSSIAN PEOPLE
CHAPTER I INTRODUCTORY
Before entering upon the consideration of the more important features of the poetical folk lore of Russia the relics of mythic and ritual song the remains of a wide spread system of sorcery which have drifted down to our days in the form of truncated spells exorcisms and incantations and the fragmentary epics or metrical romances called Builinas before endeavouring to fix the fleeting images they offer of the past it may be as well to tarry awhile in the present to trace a rapid outline of the general aspect of Russian popular poetry to give some brief account of the songs which are sung on ordinary occasions by the peasantry of the times and places when and where they are usually to be heard and of what manner of persons they are who sing them And perhaps the simplest method of conveying this information will be to describe in a few words what are so far at least as the younger members of the peasantry are concerned two of the most popular institutions of Russia the Khorovod or choral dance and the Posidyelka or social gathering so soon as the long winter has fully passed away and the spring has made its welcome influence felt the thoughts of the younger members of every village community in Russia begin to turn towards the blended dance and song of the Khorovod Before long what are called the vernal Khorovods are making their voices heard all over the land to pass successively into those of summer and autumn before they disappear at the approach of wintry weather Whence were derived these circling dances to the sound of song or at what period they gained their hold upon the Slavonic peoples neither history nor tradition can tell
