

Songs of the Humpback Whale

Whale songs have probably been heard, though seldom recognized as such, ever since man began to make voyages by sea. In the literature of whaling alone there are many accounts of strange, ethereal sounds, reverberating faintly through a quiet ship at night, mystifying sailors in their bunks. Long after such experiences were first mentioned, scientists were able to explain what caused them . . .

If the idea of whale "singing" seems odd, the cause may lie in the several meanings of the word "song." Quite apart from any aesthetic judgments one might make about them, the sounds produced by Humpback whales can properly be called songs because they occur in complete sequences that are repeated. Bird sounds are called songs for the same reason. Birds sing songs that are repeated fairly exactly and Humpback whales too are very faithful to their own individual sequence of sounds.

Humpback whale songs are far longer than bird songs. The shortest Humpback song recorded lasts six minutes and the longest far more than thirty minutes. The pauses between Humpback songs are no longer than the pauses between notes within the song; in other words, they are recycled without any obvious break. Again, in contrast with birds, who complete a song before pausing, it doesn't matter where in its song the Humpback starts or stops . . .
