Horowitz, 2001-04-09 Drawing material from dozens of divided societies Donald L Horowitz constructs his theory of ethnic conflict relating ethnic affiliations to kinship and intergroup relations to the fear of domination A groundbreaking work when it was published in 1985 the book remains an original and powerfully argued comparative analysis of one of the most important forces in the contemporary world Conflict and Compromise in Multilingual Societies Kenneth McRae, 1998-04-29 After the French Revolution Switzerland developed from a country in which German dominated linguistically into a confederation of four officially recognized language groups German French Italian Romansh concentrated in different geographical areas and marked by distinctive cultures and lifestyles Following a historical overview of this development and the social and political institutionalization of the linguistic cleavages McRae's study examines key elements in the functioning of modern Swiss society political parties federal and cantonal institutions the media educational and cultural policies the relation between the linguistic cleavages and class and religion the attitudes and behaviour of the four language groups to one another It concludes by reviewing the various explanations advanced to explain the relative social and political stability of Switzerland This book is the first volume in a projected multi volume work examining four multilingual Western democracies The volumes to come will focus on Belgium scheduled for publication in 1985 Finland and Canada The Statesman's Year-Book 1965-66 S. Starratt, 2010-09-13 Refocusing School Leadership departs from the more traditional conceptualization of leadership looking behind the daily routines of human resource leaders to highlight the assumptions and values and beliefs they bring to their work as well as the values and meanings embedded in the various contexts of school life Starratt explores how educational leadership is grounded in one's own humanity as well as in a deep appreciation of the richness complexity and enormous potential of people and he attempts to restore the centrality of human development in the work of educating the young education is not simply about educating minds but about developing whole persons Starratt argues for a refocusing of educational leadership on affirming and enabling those talents dispositions interests life experiences and cultural proficiencies that comprise their humanity to enrich the work of learning The vision of the school should speak of the extraordinary possibilities for human achievement in our young people as well as the talents of their teachers to nurture those possibilities Starratt's focus on leadership as human resource development will energize the efforts of faculty staff and students to improve the quality of learning the primary work of schools This book is a valuable resource to prepare aspiring leaders whether administrators or teachers to deal with the way schools are currently run and to imagine and create better ways to promote quality learning for all

Kalleberg,1983 Mulford Sibley for many years a professor of political science at the University of Minnesota used to frequently quote Plato's complaint in the Laws that man never legislates but accidents of all sorts legislate for us in all sorts of ways The violence of war and the hard necessity of poverty are constantly overturning governments and changing laws But even if most legislation is a result of accident Mulford Sibley holds out to us the idea that politics is a sphere of human freedom in which men and women can collectively determine the conditions of their common life
